Special thanks to,

My readers, thank you for inspiring me to continue. And of course, thanks to all my dear friends and family for supporting me, especially my mother, and my friend Barbara.

Stories explain creation. Existence is creation in experience. And God is of stories. The story begins and ends with God. So, we continue and experience stories in existence that explain creation. Do you see the future?

CHAPTER ONE

THE DOWNFALL

What is worse, a meaningless death or life? Neither would occur without the forefront of existence. Without existence there is neither death nor life. What would you do to exist? There may be a slight pause of indifference within you. This is why the Divine exists persuade you toward an existence greater than this with complete intention.

Sunlight and life-giving water are attributed to be fundamental in the creation of life as if with a transparent intention. Water or sunlight does not stand alone with the question why we are here nurtured by both. It is not any simple question unless answered by perspective that is equipped with the authentic meaning we search for.

Meaning is carried daily and depends on your choices. A hedonistic life becomes devoid of purposeful meaning by making the choice for insatiable desires. That is carnality, what else is to be expected? Seeking to acquire wealth is to gather resources without any purpose different than serving the self and world system.

There must be a big picture, and alone, with individual perspective, we only see our own big picture. The collective people generally do not observe the same picture. We only know the mute fact we have choices, and we are not always influenced by another person's choice, whether better or not. The issue of whether to first build shelter or find water and food. For our own survival it is a matter of what is immediately important.

Are your choices deemed by desire, limited by situation, or guided by intention? Desire and intention are not the same. Desire will always seek fulfillment. Intention will seek our purpose. Live guided with intention. You may have an opinion, but if not led with an intention your words remain obsolete and are easily rendered as such by someone who is more intentional.

Holding no purpose in your direction is existing without foundation being uprooted and moved by other opinions. You only reach your potential if you intend. You drive to make the correct choices for greater benefit regardless of what brings pain or difficulty.

To develop further resilience would require a strong mind, willpower, and to be stabilized by good perspective. If you withdraw your self-governance lazily, you weaken the grip of your heart and mind over your reactions and behavior. Manage impulse and govern the self with esteem (respect, admiration) for having true benevolence. Else, be swept away by the conniving evil to decide against the well-being of you and others.

I observe intense and furious affairs in the world. In neglect, people look away from the horrors toward something else. Being a hermit almost becomes self-preservation. Love is the glue that holds the world together. The fury expressed by the people maddening is sinking into the ground and taking root in people. We cannot avoid or refuse to recognize the hatred and deceit pushing the world toward its end.

There are millions of people who lie to get their way, deceive to take power, and harm to take control over everything. They represent themselves as being righteous. Without any hesitation, they announce the persecution of others as if it is deserved because we disgust them. They will seek to achieve their own immortality and turn this world into their twisted reality by pushing their claws into it.

Do not follow direction by another person's leadership when whistled at. You depend on the Spirit within for connection to the greater perspective. Maintain a moral conscience and never see purpose in death. Sustain having your independence detached from agents of chaos in the world. Rely on your heart and love as you keep mindful to the reasoning provided by the Divine. Hold fast to your intelligent and perceptive faculties of the mind and heart. The connection between both is centered within your soul. The soul is conducive to emotion and intellect. Your soul is you as personified by Spirit. It is you weighing what you know and feel. Allow the center to be receptive and to permit the Divine.

The undoing of calling yourself a faithful servant but rather wanting to own the world is that you end up serving yourself. The fanatics make the claim they are called to the world for the purpose of establishing a personal paradise that is removed from collective vision. Laying groundwork for their degenerate vision while simultaneously enforcing hell on others which they view as undesirable.

Live with benevolent long-term intentions. Exist transparently in the Light, refraining from the shadow behind as the past of your anger and mistakes. Do not focus on hiding yourself. Focus on acting with honesty, integrity, and believing in the hearts of others. See to love and make an honest attempt at peace. A torch of light leads forward and stays centralized in presence illuminating every direction you walk towards. Light is the extended depth in awareness to Spirit. Develop better character and honor love in your heart. Never entertain hatred and instead move to seek harmony.

Evil does not focus on itself. Rather evil preys on everyone else. Good intentions are present when the heart is felt and attended. Meaning and purpose are born from love, and love is maintained with intention. A person that loves community will strive to support their community. Your love will give you meaning. The love in your heart always will ponder on all that you care for and value.

Good ultimately wins the scenario, as truth always will reign superior to lies. Lies do not remain unaffected when revelation shows those lies as invalid and false. A liar can only conceal their lies with other lies. An honest person does not need to cover themselves. We are beings of Light. Our purpose is not to cloak ourselves and conceal our intentions but to shine our love and wisdom.

When the light of the Heavens is revealed and shines onto this world the people who have darkened in character will screech and wither away. Presently, there are many people purposely acting on bringing the world to its end, the Last Hour. Though on that day, they will offer reaction as if they are surprised. For now, they behave carelessly. The Divine is completely aware of the charade. Antagonists conceal their evil minds with a smile and refer to God as if their actions are divinely inspired, but it is quite the opposite.

Social affairs, politics, and this world system are interwoven and complicated. Each holds several layers between covert affairs, online media, and the broadcasting information to the public. The agenda of corrupt people in this world system are working to discourage any positive resolution, multiply frustrations of other people, and embolden negative attitudes between people of all backgrounds. The ruling people with extensive wealth will hide in their bunkers while the people in the world kill each other as they were taught to do.

So as to not forfeit your future, you need to be mindful to all you understand about common love and humanity. Withhold from social devices to dehumanize others. Unify against the division of race, sexuality, gender, religion, and recognize each soul as creation of the Spirit. People see others differently than themselves for being another race, religion, or sexuality. An example, there are men that see themselves unlike women to an extent they are convinced women cannot understand them. That is to be impersonal deliberately and this in return creates unnecessary distance.

People will see their pet as another being deserving of respect but call someone else an offensive slur. It is beyond the notion of being both ridiculous and undeserved. People who choose to tolerate this behavior ought to be aware they are entertaining evil. People who repress the feelings of regret for their harmful action are heading in the wrong direction.

If someone tells you to hurt someone and you do it, you cannot call it a mistake. You made a choice. It is not an unintended error while painting. You cannot save yourself with only excuses for your actions and the past. The way to redeem yourself is making the decision to love others tenfold more and to renounce any desire with only regard to your own benefit. You acted in failure, so be passive and obedient to those who survive in heart. The love people express inspires me and the love I express also inspires others.

Expressing compassion and love requires having a vulnerable nature. You can establish the emotional condition of vulnerability. Turn inward and take steps to resolve the anger and frustration causing you to rival the world and place your focus on showing your heart. See that there is no solution to hatred within. Free your heart whether from a grudge or previous abuse and reclaim space to feel love again. This love is a part of the big picture.

This world is approaching a cliff and when it spills over life on Earth will come to an end. This is the consequence of not stopping before the cliff and taking different actions.

The final destruction. A sharp increase in chaos will set the world on fire. Many people will become unhinged, rebel, and behave on impulse to dark desire. The raging fire in the world strips away the foundation of our society, community, and what gave it life.

Anyone aware of the higher purpose for our lives would not be consumed about the world and its destruction. Existentially keen people consider there is a next part that leads our soul beyond. The reality of the lesson is that good is superior to evil. All created existence will choose to embrace love and benevolence over hatred and malevolence eventually, if not now.

One must understand the ramification of embracing wickedness. Understand why it is destructive to normalize opposition between people of diverse backgrounds. If only our world could withstand the pressure to revolt and make conflict. Anyone participating in the clash of culture will continue to increase into further intolerance. It is clear to the victims themselves who is being attacked.

The ones you watch align their words and actions to societal dialogue, increasing in their aggression and hysteria, they become increasingly less of themselves. Anyone can notice the degradation of character in someone. The one becoming less human does not recognize their gradual change, like an onset of dementia.

The people who become self-aware and avoid wicked influence acquire comparative understanding to know the perfect good and Divine is both precious and invaluable. We learn the repercussions of evil by seeing what it does to other people. Those who turn their mind, heart, and desires toward evil will soon recognize their failure at the time the skies open. They will be caught red-handed. This present momentary period of existence is about learning these lessons.

The next chapter in eternity is improved as our existence understands that wickedness serves nothing but itself. The supreme reality responds with the redevelopment and start of a better-informed universe. The Divine Mind, origin and source of intelligent conception and mind of God, demonstrates a progressive plan and advances in orchestration of creation.

Participants as ourselves consented to our involvement in existence, as before was the promise for an existence profound and perfect, eventually. The promise is reserved as each interval in creation operates to conserve quality, further progress, and improve toward stated promise at later stage of creation.

To silence existential questioning of why all succumbs, and rebirth remains to be no less purposeful, free will and personal agency each exist with every soul in this universe. Every day varies, and your future is your venture. It is a learning curve not attained quickly either by interest or enthusiasm. Wicked people make hell on Earth by developing their own sickened imagination in the natural world.

All that suffering will heal. Wicked people are rejected by the consequence of their damage. People of clear conscience will regard the safety and protection of others. Moral good and its expression is lawful when society does actively seek preservation. Those who revolt to endanger society are limited when moving forward. To contemplate beyond the concern of positive or negative to personal benefit is to know an impersonal perspective. Holding this impartial perspective is the essential neutrality we are to equip for the dispute of major affairs.

Why the waiting period between now and divine intervention?

People are offered ample time to turn away from wickedness and repent for their previous harm. In good spirits many can deny their wickedness and apologize prior to the Day of Judgment later following the Last Hour.

The coming downfall of human civilization is fixed to occur due to both the elites and commoners and their pursuit of wickedness and seizing control. The elites are responsible for the destabilization of society. The commoners who choose aggravation and their regressive attitude amplify tensions. Those people appearing relaxed to the persecution of others believe themselves as righteous, but are not. They descend personally to level with their fallen perceptions of other people whom they despise unjustly. God help them in their realization, however, the people with love remaining be protected above as much.

Crazed groups newly seated with power will rush toward full control over society with the utility of judgment and zealotry to scourge others into despair while themselves refusing to have regret.

With their love disregarded and placed in the backseat, the crusaders seek to usurp the world while convinced the abrupt disarray is as God intends. They arrogantly rush to take the leadership of the entire world. To seize world power is a rebellion against Nature and God. It is a fall of pride that is the stubborn belief that one has a responsibility to control the lives of other people. The mindset that a human knows more than another human ever could is a fallacy. Fools think they are of a superior class to determine judgment.

The Divine plan is not strategized by the zealots, cultists, and billionaires. The people deceive themselves deviating away from civil sensibility. Social dysphoria occurs in people who develop passion in their shared ideals and vision for society. And for it to become reality, they disparage people of the community, to purposefully involve the persecution of other social groups. They alienate themselves from human nature by obsessively focusing on their perception of sin they see in others. They are mobilizing to attack. Always, it is a dangerous circumstance when people of the majority start to believe they are persecuted and the victims of social minorities. Any agenda to involve genocide is ungodly. Do not fall with others who engage in the climactic scenario to impose covert and destructive virtues.

An emergent characterization of purity will narrow the standard of what is deemed socially acceptable. Any contention in reasoning is to be dismissed and culturally sacrificed. The blind and steering popular perspectives are negligent to define a human catastrophe. These are a few of the social issues approaching the nearing circumstances in heavy irrationality.

Blood was spilled throughout history by the people who believed virtue of purity is being perfect or ideal of a social conservative standard, though it is not. Rather, purity is to be genuine to who you are on the inside. Those transparent about same sex attraction are pure to who they are with personal experience. And individuals who mask thoughts and emotions are impure due to their outward presentation being disharmonious to what is truly occurring within them. Do not reach for the approval of others. Instead, you continue to be honest with the alignment of self and the Divine.

Are you content that suffering is temporary? And the Heavens are good and holy having endless dimensions to euphoric imaginations expansive to many worlds and stories? We are not created to suffer. The deception tells you to chase the hour yet ignore the ending. You will be healed. Your emotional scars soothed. Those who were tormentors are demoted in rank, and the ones with a resilient love are known superior once scaled.

The Divine watches our world climax in a development of corruption. The watchtowers at the four corners observe for the rate in the expansion of the covering darkness. The evil present in the world celebrates an illusion that it will overcome all creation, but it is for you to remember that good is superior to evil.

Nothing in spirit at its natural disposition would decide to suffer rather than prosper. Eventually, life will thrive. Yet a part of the cosmic story is that at first, wickedness will be represented at its full expression. Evil exposes itself to existence and the Holy One because of its attempted seizure of existence. The wicked ones show a false appearance of purpose and honor. Instead, they abide with deception and dishonor.

I urge you to refuse to entertain the people who soon crusade in the world. Truth and justice will become exalted with its karma to correct the wrong and usher accountability. More will make it into Heaven if we forgive. The act of forgiveness is complimentary in that it also allows us to be forgiven for the wrongs we have committed. This is not a demand. Yet, it is the way that harmony will develop within collective existence. With having a genuine retrospection, it can be recognized that this is a difficult life. People are often mistaken and confused.

To forgive does not mean to forget. There are steps toward the final resolution. Nobody is held to the same expectation. The journey is individual, and this the Divine knows. We are not compared to each other. You will not be measured beside someone more destructive. The damage we have done is our own personal responsibility.

People act on their past and the consequent instinct formed in their subconscious. Strong emotion may cause reactionary behavior. We respond to how we feel. Sometimes we make ourselves feel emotion beyond the actions of another alone.

A person met with a rejection may have their previous wounds opened. They may react inconsistently to their beliefs, values, and best interests. The extent of their reaction depends on repeated disappointment from past experiences. The control of their reaction depends on personal resilience, understanding, and wisdom.

Trauma will bind certain feelings to attach to lines of reasoning and behavior. The trauma will form partly an intense distrust to guard by association. We then are left with preconceived notions that have an origin we struggle to recognize. This distrust when not rationalized to its origin can perturb and affect situations with some direct, related, or residual form of connection to the trauma.

The belief system of Zoroastrianism is older than Judaism by around nine hundred years. It holds original thought which brought further inspiration to the three dominating Abrahamic religions of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. Of the religion is an understanding taught that echoes this chapter as written this far.

Ahura Mazda, the supreme deity in Zoroastrianism, is the uncreated being of Wisdom. Ahura Mazda reigns over creation by Asha, the life force of truth and cosmic order. Asha has the purpose of defeating its antithesis Druj. Druj is the deadly force of falsehood, deceit, and disorder. Druj itself results from the Angra Mainyu, the destructive spirit and mentality. Individuals in society may have the destructive spirit (and mentality) to pursue harm. This is of malevolence, the people who show desire for the suffering of others.

The force of cosmic truth and order in Asha stems from the Spenta Mainyu, the creative spirit (and mentality). Discussed in the Encyclopaedia Iranica (Iranian Encyclopedia) the narrative is brought to resolution once Ahura Mazda and Asha ultimately prevail over the Angra Mainyu, and then our reality proceeds through a following cosmic renovation called the Frashokereti. When the universe and all reality become restored into perfection and the once present evil becomes removed from existence.

My heart and spirit in tune with beneficent supreme deity, I see that evil may exist but only for a time and place. The Frashokereti known by Zoroastrianism is comparable to the ending of Revelation in the Bible.

Prior to the coming of Jesus, the Messiah, there are the two beasts in Revelation. The beast of the sea and the beast of the land. The former is identified as the antichrist and the latter as the false prophet. I contend there may be an association of the first beast with the sea serpent Leviathan, and the false prophet with land monster Behemoth. In the biblical visions and narrative, the first beast (antichrist) suffers a fatal wound, but the fatal wound is healed. This event astonishes the world.

“One of its heads seemed to have received a death blow, but its fatal wound had been healed. In amazement the whole earth followed the beast.”

Revelation 13:3 (NRSVUE)

A supernatural event broadcast is not as simple as a notice in the mail stating a payment is late. It is not a regular incident. It will dazzle many people in the sense of unreality. Thus, conjuring hysteria and fascination. Yes, there is a supernatural face of reality, and it is real, but no phenomena should forgo discernment and simply be trusted.

In Thessalonians 2 it is said the antichrist seats himself in the temple (thought to be the third temple) and proclaims to be God. The two beasts are thrown into the lake of burning sulfur and Satan is imprisoned into the Abyss and locked away.

The return of the Messiah to reign over the world for a thousand years. Satan is away in this duration of time but later released at the end of the period. Then Satan will go out once more to deceive the nations of the four corners to gather his army for battle. Fire from heaven devours the army and Satan is thrown into the lake of burning sulfur where the two beasts were thrown earlier.

This scathing lake of fire is Gehenna, and it is where a soul would be sent for final destruction, the second death. The second death is when a soul is destroyed and removed from existence. In Chapter 20 of Revelation is the Judgment of the Dead and the event of death and Hades being thrown into the lake of fire along with anyone who is not mentioned in the book of life.

Chapter 21 of Revelation holds resemblance to the Frashokereti in Zoroastrianism when examined. The ending chapter of the modern canonical Bible proclaims “a new heaven and a new earth” comes into existence and the first heaven and earth pass away. Another development from this point moving forward is that God will dwell among humanity. The anguish of the former existence is disposed of.

“He will wipe every tear from their eyes. Death will be no more; mourning and crying and pain will be no more, for the first things have passed away.”

Revelation 21:4 (NRSVUE)

It is the same theme and situation between these mentioned belief systems. It is pleasant to consider the positive outlook for existence anticipated throughout history. This insight should not be taken for granted. It is what faithful men and women have seen ahead for over two thousand years. Do not discard the notion because of a disabled reason. Witness for this future as its vision being both hopeful and righteous.

We have hope to hold onto. The universe and reality would not have come from beyond together into existence if there was no greater purpose. It is the same as the observation for evolution when deriving a sense for archetypal and metaphysical property and seeing the vital energy emanating life with an inherent process for its purpose. Evolution is the unfolding, the turning story, and the cosmic drama. A linear and multipolar course of growth, life is a path forward forming genetics and stories.

CHAPTER TWO

REALIZATION OF WHY

Every person has extent for free will. People have the choice to show love and support to others, even in the face of adversity. As well, there are those who instead choose to harm and oppress other people. The collective and individual both hold the decision of whether to act in benevolent or malevolent works. Some claim that suffering in the world and existence indicates that God is heartless or incompetent to not end it. This reasoning does not account for the dilemma in society, there would be less suffering if all upheld civility, love, and care for each other and the world.

If we do not handle the accountability of our own actions and self-involvement, we remain unbalanced and fervent to our desires. Divinity and the planting of life do not offer a reception for automatic gifts. Blessings are with honor and done with reason. The wild animals do not venture into your home to be slaughtered for your meal. Experience and development of consciousness will present the opportunity for acquiring greater skill and knowledge. Growth is an expansion of reason, wisdom, resilience, competence, and training ability to not falter from them.

If we were perfect from the start, it would rob us of an authentic opportunity to progress as people. This scenario would be misplaced without a progressive future. The challenge will attract the interest of someone to better their own versatility. In a speculative reality fixed without connection to personal contact, we would be quickly bored with disinterest. As a result, we would be missing the journey over time to obtain the knowledge to manage what can be productive and meaningful free will. The purpose and its inner significance within everything are found during the process.

The wicked and corrupt interplay of rulers in society and their caused suffering to those oppressed does not conclude as independently responsible of God. If you want sovereignty, there you have it. The checks and balances in karma at resolution reverse the momentum of injustice, atones the foolish for bad deeds, and good works are honored. We have goodness to protect. We guard by love and have resilience in faith.

Defend the bright future by allowing the work of God to occur. There will be those who conspire to halt the divine undoing that is done to restore this world. They file a frontline to compel away their ultimatum. Manpower is untethered. Its strength comes from muscle not spirit. Peer into the beauty and flow expressive in Nature and wildlife. View the inherent quality of goodness. This is the mark of the divine spark and presence.

Wicked people opt to reject godly values, and without wisdom, they seek godly virtues. This results in a spiritual fossilization as their soul searches for power in lands away from the hearth of their home. Their mind freezes and heart shivers as they become immobile and frigid.

The Most High will not reward one with greater power. There are souls who choose to wander for a greater glory than God. They end up separated in the darkness. From behind, evil calls souls into opposition against the Divine. Accepting the Most High as above all else is the first step in walking the middle path. The narrow boundary is obeyed by handling your ego to be subservient to the Most High.

Some think the belief in God would require the theology of absolute determinism to be necessary. Its proposal in concept rejects free will in favor of infatuation for observing that God is all-powerful. This crutch used to hold up a debate inadvertently excuses our actions. This is a paradox to the claim of self-governed consciousness. It implies God predetermined all condition and event in denial of existent ability for humanity to act on its own behalf. This rebuttal used to oppose an almighty God is a common route to deny theists:

“Is God all-powerful and all-good?”

“Yes.”

“Is everything according to God’s plan?”

“Yes.”

“So then according to God’s plan the suffering of innocent people should occur.”

Contrary to that, free will exists. It is the compass and individual responsibility of each person. The concern God prepared creation on a path toward an objective predestination does not infer that God controls everyone and personal action. There is only one direction to ultimate reality, up. If you wish to linger below, it is your own choice. You decide your future by participating and your actions result in your own consequent reputation.

You will be known as you are. The Divine has a calling for all people. It exists deep within the conscience and the contemplation and imagination. All that is involved in creation has depth. Therefore, you must also have depth to know. Consciousness facilitates the intertwining of thought and imagination. The spirit within you already knows there ahead is an eternal calling of the Divine to all spirit. In the will to listen there is law and direction.

The universe advances by expansion and evolution and takes to new levels in the event of its reimagining. The perfect development in existence is the objective of the Divine. This ultimatum recognizes that through the endless bout of time that existence will reach toward states of perfection.

End-of-time events being foreseeable does not require preceding events to involve any specific control over you or lack of autonomy. The best outcome to the events does involve you and others taking optimal action.

Sociological factors which affect us do bring attention toward pressing conditions and near potential events. To have any concept for the future is to comprehend the present without bias, and to recognize the scope of public attitudes. The analysis advises the potential of societal development over a period. Knowing the opinion and condition of the world at present, one may envision future events by rendering relative information to gain further perspective. In view of history and patterning this we know.

Do not be stubborn and unbelieving. The imbalance at present due to suffering and the material distraction is part of why people are vulnerable to bitterness. Social ills are causing society to become disorderly, and further in need of resolution.

Vision comes from above and knowledge rains on the world. Either shelter away from the truth or participate alongside truth to unify with the elemental universe. The ascent of the staircase will lead to a closer relationship with the Divine. Embracing the truth inspires you to be studious in ways you can improve. Learning the variety with expression of love and strengthening your benevolence is how you create benefit with your impact.

Being personal to the self is also personal to the imagination. When familiar reality in front of you fades away, where do you go. You turn inward away from death and toward a venture in the nonphysical. Nonphysical reality exists from the permanence of which the material realm coexists. The world is isolated as a temporary manifestation and time. A castle is built over a hundred years then destroyed by an earthquake. Do not attempt to define an eternity in two years.

Your vision of existence and its meaning is shaped by the available perception you hold and grow upon. Understanding is established through reasoning and wisdom. When viewing the divine mind, intention of the heavens, the light of realization will reveal a true direction. The way ahead to heavenly existence is to become aware that truth is the necessary pass to enter the gates of heavenly domains further increasing beauty. Your belonging in heaven gives you love when you give love back.

We remain at odds within society. This plane where we take place was once ejected away from higher existence for its degradation. Separation was natural to occur for differences in quality. Transcendent harmony is the virtue of diplomatic respect. We do not despise each other. We are annoyed due to the restrictions imposed on our lives. Captured by the wicked, we are forced to submission for social institutions and at the demand to follow specific behaviors and ideologies. Humanity lost the capacity for its direction and belief system by the fear-based control system established by the religious and political elite.

The currents of frustration direct groups to lead and follow a rebellion against the broad collective. Due to their shared attitudes, the isolated social circles assemble with intention to compartmentalize their social lives into an exclusive lifestyle and network. They structure their lives as they desire. The members of the isolation institute perspective they themselves are outsiders to general society. Those enlisted attach to shared identity which they develop among themselves. This can be as broad as a social movement.

They reinforce the frustration and bias that each of them shares and together applaud their estrangement away from the rest of the world. Their intentional disconnect to society enables their own superiority complex.

The subculture of a group becomes further stabilized after the early development of its group identity. Then it becomes ordinary for the members to guarantee their perspectives. They develop the suborder they deem ideal even though flaws and crimes persist behind the curtain. When the rebellious ideology can contain its influence and act, their view as outsiders then becomes their view of being an insider. From inside they see everyone else as deviants to their new order. The vocal leaders lionize themselves with a deceptive self-righteousness. The charismatics continue to inflate their perception of self and increasingly they socialize to be out of touch. Evil takes the role of leadership by casting stones. Evil does not show the true intent of its behavior, and it will violate boundaries over time ruthlessly.

At present the formative process in radicalization of social groups causes disillusionment, promoting aggressive ideology to develop. The groups are soon capable of chaotic behaviors, and the demand of their ideology motivates a person by increasing priority and importance of acting. Those who adhere will rebel against social harmony and its passive nature. These groups become actionable to overrule others. With their ideology they translate solutions they propose into the real world. At this point when there becomes impatience, there will be a calling for genocide, Nazis discussed this as the final solution.

Divine intervention in timing is found most necessary when there is rampant outrage and misbehavior that exceeds beyond human control. If there were no free will, creation would have no potential of its own. Instead, a major intervention suggests the world does have its own potential trajectory, how people involve themselves. Humanity at its end requests for intervention. It is often a nearly imperceptible way in which the Divine participates beyond public awareness.

The Divine agenda responds to the finality of events in this age. Its response is not overtly responsible for previous actions of humanity. Its responsibility aligns with its agenda. Free will is faced by individual responsibility. The unfolding of divine intervention will answer minor events in circumstance. It is decisive when rejoining the decisions of humanity. The Divine is prepared to counter the impending dooms of humanity.

A fundamental variable involved is if one holds a conscious personal relationship with the Divine. It is within the scope of free will to befriend the Divine in the heart and imagination. It is socially inappropriate to walk up and make a demand from someone you have never met before. A rapport must be developed between yourself and the Divine to close in on a relationship. Humanity can attend its purpose to improve conditions in the universe. It is time to show your present assistance to Light with an effort toward universal harmony. Express your mastery in heart and mind, reveal your potential in these trying times. Audition for the bright human future.

For the wisdom to appreciate good nature, it must be understood it is precious and can slip away when not pursued. In time, as the wicked unfolds as increasingly pervasive, we witness consequences firsthand. Some will conform to the expectations of predators like prey do. Predators will not devour those who they can co-opt and teach to track down the other prey. This is for advantage of the predator, so that the predator can be fed by its own prey.

The chaos in affairs which ensues will, for many people, recall their innate preference for good, love, and benevolence. While the radical destruction ravages globally, society struggles to approximate the damage. At the Last Hour, divine intervention and spiritual rebirth usher the direction for all to follow purpose by the pursuit of cosmic harmony and justice.

Justice is a divine demonstration that strikes through the wicked. Two wrongs do not make a right. What is genuinely good is careful not to cause unnecessary suffering or any excess of it. Atonement through the revelation of truth is a lesson that helps save a soul, and it revokes the possibility of a meaningless punishment.

The call of retribution is not a distant lingering of harsh feelings that seek an equivalent counterattack. To punish someone physically for their physical abuse is arbitrary. There is not an element that instructs moral refinement through repeating the act itself.

The behavior is corrected and atoned by its consequence having a resonance to the crime. If the soul is unwilling to learn, it further distances, and its subjective experience will decline.

What the deceiver says to others will stem intentionally from their own misguided and impulsive behavior. They project their lies with false context that has an illusionary sense of accountability for the situation. The one who deceives shows false light so to separate others from the foundation of reality. They pursue the path in their will becoming their own sovereign god. Humankind is created in the Divine image. With advanced nature to have mental faculties in reason to interpret wisdom and understanding. Having humility, one is best able to discern and identify moral correctness.

I present myself in a unique way to every person. People match their energy with another when interacting in each situation. The Divine does not match worldly institutions or entertain political chasing of secular society. The Divine is not compatible with the systems of the world. Faith does not constitute control over life. It is a liberation from the clutch ruling over people. Faith honors the spirit alone. The mind respects this condition and recedes from its dominant attempt to relieve insecurity from the unknown. The mind becomes an attribute of patience to faith, completing the circle for reason and individual sovereignty.

Neither the religious nor secular world are focused on the reality that the Divine is seated in the realm at the height of hope, aspiration, imagination, and ecstatic feeling. If someone truly would grasp this, it becomes obvious there is only one way for becoming closer to God. Excel in goodness. Jesus Christ led this example. The Divine has a universal fit for every soul. It can form within every heart that treats itself to have the capacity for a personal relationship with the Divine. Its way of relating is different for everyone. And as well, Heaven has a sense of humor. The echelons of the heavens increase in peace, sentiment, and blossom to greater beauty within eternity.

Angels mourn for the good-hearted people who suffer abuse and misery. This is why the clouds are drenched in tears. There would be no reason to walk up to an angel and shove them. It is not the fault of goodness that there is evil. The universal intention is to lighten up away from the wicked nature of things. This evolution of existence from the previous was introduced with further possibilities. Resulting is the implication that evil has become more complex and is more accessible than before. Know to push forward. The horrors seen in the world are temporary.

Do not think that I do not acknowledge the suffering and trauma people experience in life. I acknowledge it. I am not describing a fairy tale to minimize the concern of suffering. What is beyond here is much brighter. And in retrospect, it will be worth the journey at present. Human suffering to this extent will not be allowed in the future upon the reignition of the collective spirit. You will pursue destiny and experience fulfillment from it.

Searching for an authentic relationship with the Divine is an introspective effort that does require resilience, faith, patience, belief, and most important, humility. With time you begin to understand what you considered, and then eventually knowing will succeed beyond the previous suspicion had alone. Experience the narrative of befriending God with conscience in the same way you personally connect in the real world.

If God is imaginary, then investigate your imagination making the effort to know how the Divine exists within. What would divinity do for the poor, sick, fragile, and sad? To be clear it is fair presumption that divinity would do more than the proud men and women who foolishly prioritize the material system they consider the source for livelihood.

The nature of the Divine is widely misunderstood by people. Is it true that the Divine ignores the world or is it not controlling the world? If the Divine oversaw everyone and their actions like a parent constantly watching behind their child's back, humanity would be frustrated as a creation that by purpose has the orientation to act with free will.

You must understand God in the way you would reason how the Divine is to size up in both reality and possibility. Good comes from within. The subjective experience of a person with love can express charity for the living and be fulfilled. We can expect God has empathy, and the Holy Spirit to counsel and advise what is the best direction.

Simple people are not ones to chase luxury in this world. The decision to create on Earth by selfish design alone is misguided. We spend time developing our relationship to the calling Light through the introspective Heavens of the Divine. Your spirit is above your head. As a gateway to the World of Spirit toward higher reality. You can touch on higher levels of consciousness by relationship to God within.

Let us be inclusive to the sum of creation. I do not intend to assign gender to God in my writing. That is why I often will say the Divine instead. I do consider God to have a love both fatherly and motherly. A love holding support, counsel, guidance, and recognition. Remember though, God is beyond what can be offered by men and women. You are welcome to refer to God in a way most intimate to you.

The calling Light is not material to our lives. It is a spiritual facet of existence we look to. It is the direction that faces the presence of the Heavenly Father. It is inspired into being and becomes one with Nature, the expression is felt within. It will inhabit the surroundings of reality when fully known by perception. Allow the spirit of Light within a safe space of secure belief and love to establish eternal connection. Remember this, it is how the presence of God stays with you no matter where you are. Tidy the space within you to be one of comfort and adoration for the Holy Spirit.

Do not believe that God imitates the zealous attitudes of those who use the divine name for their own sought agendas. The space within opens when the soul does too. Unlock your ability to be receptive and reconsider. It may interest you to reach within self to personally know the Divine. You are not prescribed the need to believe in God on a purely dogmatic basis. God is natural and formless. Like energy that finds different forms of resonance, not as being of a permanent and rigid nature. It may be that an intellectual would seek to know God through valid perspectives, with a curiosity to learn the holiness above.

Does one care to know what makes a soul holy, it is not what many would think. It is not about privilege or simply glory. It is about the immense love and goodness. This presence is what makes the Divine. The one who gave all their effort and spirit to save the world. The one who truly believes in that one. The ones who gave that one all their care and concern. The Holy One enthroned protects the ones who selflessly became the same holy nature.

For a lengthy duration of history there was the present theme of henotheism in particular cultures and regions. Henotheism is the middle ground between polytheism and monotheism. Henotheism regards one Supreme Deity and includes lesser deities. Idolatry and looking at a minor force in obedience is misguided. In 1200 – 1000 BC the denizens of ancient Israel by a majority had worshipped the Supreme Deity which has been named El.

El is the benevolent supreme creator that has been seated in the heavens. Over time there been decreased acknowledgment of El throughout the biblical period to present. And Yahweh was recognized further from being a lesser deity to being worshipped alone amid the period of the 10th to 6th century BC when Israel operated as a monarchy. Lesser deities were worshipped however by the end of the Babylonian exile of the late 6th century then Yahwism became the monotheistic preface of Israel.

El' Elyon is the supreme deity the Divine Council serves. Divine Council is the forum for heavenly affairs responsible for conduct of the Divine agenda over the universe and human affairs. Ancient Israelites of later generations viewed God as being Yahweh. Initially El was the high god of the Divine Council, later it was Yahweh considered as the high god over the Divine Council. This implicated the matter as the original perspective was El is the Heavenly Father.

In Exodus it is purported that God showed their presence to Moses in the form of YHWH. The Tetragrammaton YHWH is recognized as being Yahweh. Yahweh became recognized as the supreme deity. This belief then introduces a major discrepancy because God known to Abraham, Jacob, and Isaac, was El. The view of God as being El takes place biblically in the book of Genesis much earlier before Moses. YHWH is described to be a personal form of God able to interact directly with humanity. YHWH is also known to be the angel of the Lord. Scholars describe Yahweh either to be a lesser deity, or the high god over the Divine Council who supervises and determines the heavenly agenda.

There is orthodox perspective that Judeans believed Jesus Christ to be YHWH incarnated. The Canaanite pantheon assigned Yahweh as one of the sons of El. In the book of Luke, the archangel Gabriel ascribed Jesus Christ as the Messiah and son of the Most High (the English title for El' Elyon). This confirms the revered status for Jesus Christ as the son of the Most High. LORD of the Old Testament is YHWH, later incarnated in appearance as the Jesus Christ of the New Testament. YHWH speaks the Word of God, being the Logos and divine authority of El, the Most High. And so, it would be the Word of God became incarnated in the flesh.

Jesus Christ is a messenger sent to Earth by the Heavenly Father to spread the gospel of the coming kingdom. Jesus Christ is placed at the right side of the Most High. His dominion over Heaven and Earth as the mediator. In the Old Testament YHWH appears to prophets as the mysterious angel of the Lord. Described by those who encountered the angel of the Lord it appeared as if they were seeing God, which confused them because of previous cultural belief that nobody could witness God and be able to then survive.

YHWH is the angel of the Lord personal to humanity. Jesus Christ is sent by the Heavenly Father with the message the coming kingdom, this identifies Jesus Christ is an angel. The term for angel in the Bible is malak which translates to messenger. It can be proposed that Jesus Christ is an archangel. As both the mediator and divine intercessor, he is a chief angel that directs heavenly and earthly affairs.

There are two figures who parallel the role of YHWH as the angel of the Lord and Jesus Christ. The two are assigned to be mediators and intercessors between Heaven and Earth. I am referring to Metatron and Yahoel. Each are identical in their description. The book of Enoch notes the angel Metatron as also being Yahoel. This depicts they are one in the same. Metatron and Yahoel are each known as being the Lesser YHWH. Knowing that El had been conflated with YHWH, it may be better stated Metatron (Yahoel) is the Lesser El. It is a matter of written perspective. Metatron was viewed in this way through apocryphal, rabbinic, and mystical texts. Yahoel was viewed the same in the Apocalypse of Abraham written at the end of the Second Temple period.

Metatron is discussed being seated at the side of the throne of the Most High. Metatron is known to be the mediator and intercessor between Heaven and Earth. Knowing YHWH is the prevalent and notable intercessor of God to humanity, it then adapts YHWH is Metatron (Yahoel) and the man of Jesus Christ.

Lesser deities are like humanity. The deities have free will. Lesser deities may act on their will which may either conflict or support the will of the Divine. In the early church age, the theologian Augustine believed pagan gods are fallen angels who masquerade and pretend to be the godlike beings revered. This accounts for the terrestrial influence that fallen angels have with their participation on Earth. I would consider that fallen angels were impersonating the deities who were imaged in the pantheons, not that the fallen angels are the same deities. The veil is illusionary. It is not easily discerned who the force is on the other side.

The Divine Council is a perceived assembly that has been witnessed by human imagination as part of reality. The concept Divine Council is a belief passed through thousands of years between ancient Civilizations. It is described by ancient civilizations, like the Mesopotamian civilization and others between its history and the later Canaanite civilization. The Lament of Ur is a Sumerian epic poem written around 2000 BC and is one of the earliest records where the Divine Council is described.

Ancient civilizations held their perceptive and connective relationship to the Heavenly Host through mediums of information, such as the creative imagination, visionary experience, and more. People who live today in modernized society lack understanding for the reality of heavenly realms. The ancient people were familiar with the supernatural reality. And the former connection to supernatural reality and its awareness has been diminished. Now, most people are unwilling to fathom their beliefs as being true. People of today practice crimes against humanity though they claim to have belief in God. They see suffering of no concern to spirit. They do not perceive the value and substance for the otherworldly.

The Divine precedes and supersedes all of creation as the Alpha and Omega. The descent away from divine reality introduces an innately disharmonious quality. Higher divine reality is complete in everything necessary to constitute a perfect existence. An existence, fond of the soul, that involves love, security, connection, purpose, contentment, and so on. The grand project of the universe will further introduce upper dimensions to reality and improve its condition.

Everything created comes together through the Light into complete unification. Light is the force that awakens. Light opens the eyes from slumber when the hour comes for life to shine. It oversees the reach of distance traveled as territory. The Light commands the spirit within to uncover itself and be witnessed all the way through. Parts of you suppressed deeply and refused for anybody to know, will be known by the Light. Have faith, as the Light can mend your soul and present you before the renewal of spirit. Even if there is shame within you, please have the grace to yourself to trust and be willing.

With the Light being present, there are two options: to either embrace or reject it. If you hide in the shadows, then nobody will know you. The wicked people hold mixed feelings and fear before the Light. They will battle the fearful desire to reject the Light. Do not be fearful to reveal yourself. The correct decision is to trust the Light, and to do so with love and hope. Love and hope will forge the necessary key to open the door to a brighter existence.

Will you remember to keep love and hope within yourself all the way to your death? You will need both to open the door. Existence will not end with pleasant silence if you forget to express what remains within. All that you feel strongly must be balanced. Not to be equal, but to make way to restore your relationship with other souls and your maker.

Why the burden, and is it love or hate? The love that remains as residual will cause the feelings of withdrawal. The need to love is the fix, it settles the ache in the center. The hate that dwells cannot be resolved by words alone. The hate swelled within must burn away. The attachment turns to ashes as the impurities are refined, and the rage is exhausted. Then the soul may settle into realignment with spirit. The immense effort to unify with the greater good.

If there are words you should say to clean up your act and they are left unexpressed, you will shout those words after death. Though if there is no air, then the shout will be a gasp. And removed from your voice you are struck to face your damage alone. Left with desperate hope that the people who needed to know the truth can hear. Now, they cannot anymore. This weighs heavily and the ascent into the Light increased with difficulty.

Regardless of the burden you should still use all your strength and travel closer to the Light. Seek to enter the Light, even if each step covers less distance than the one before. There will still be a time and place for you.

You may not have hope, but all you need is love. Focus on being determined to show love given the chance to remake your purpose. Spend the rest of your time here being honest with your soul and admit the words weighing heavy on your heart that you feel need to be said. Say the truth to someone close, even if they are apart from the matter. So that it can be said and your heart can feel that you have spoken the truth.

CHAPTER THREE

GIVING MORE THAN WHAT IS TAKEN

Do you place your full effort with mind and heart into being a good and loving person? In the past have you turned a blind eye when someone did wrong due to their frustration or irrational emotions because you understood they were having a tough time? Would you speak up after witnessing another person yell an inappropriate slur at another, demanding them to stop, and holding them accountable for their actions? There are people who would confront someone threatening and approach a situation to defend another, even when they personally know neither of them.

In your actions, you set forward your future. Are you making the decisive effort to place Heaven above Hell? With having sanity, it is most reasonable to decide for good instead of evil. Manage your development toward being good, honest, and repentant, as none of us are perfect. Helping ourselves to refine our character flaws with clear intention for harmony is what makes an individual shine in their spirit.

Carry on and know yourself that you may have a seat among the holiest and benevolent heavens, if you set yourself aside for the hope alight in all that is good. Walk forward in this direction. With this pursuit leading you forward, it becomes easier to navigate as each negative habit is broken with necessary time and effort.

There is no requirement to be religious, as you do not have to be. To be is not the point. Everyone is welcome into Heaven with a good heart and intention. If you are not a believer that is okay, but I assure you that what I discuss will one day rise and the disbelief will be taken away from your control. Simply, whether you do not or do believe in the Divine is only your circumstance at this moment. An event could change that. So, it is your heart and its ability to love others that truly matters at this moment in present.

It takes selflessness to risk your life to save someone else. It is the grace of sacrificial love that is embodied to save someone else. They could be a parent to a child or instead a child to parents. Regardless of who they are. The proof is in the action itself. It requires will to overlook risk and do anything to help another. People without courage and willpower tend to criticize those that do. Aggressors are passive but will act with further intensity when push comes to shove.

The one who can hold back when it is found necessary, has greater control than another person. Wield this control with the agenda to temper a heated conflict and pacify others by negating their intensity. Display the ability to be unpersuaded by their attempt to trouble you in mind and spirit. Then, take the responding moment to instruct them how to regain control over their haste in their emotions and actions. Call for a moment of reflection. Offer another perspective, one with greater logic and appeal, to be effective.

The result in scenario may not appear successful, but you have allowed for the fault to be discovered as one. This weakens and makes the attack insecure. And you have expressed a greater control and authenticity which will carry with you. Nothing can strike you with permanent condition and injury. The spirit will arise with strength and know its own alignment with righteousness. And nothing can take away from the facts of who is right in the end.

The instructional measure allows another person to expand their mind, to inform their following behavior. It is effective to outsmart the story antagonist by showing flawless logic. It shakes the unjust foundation and cracks the window. The exchange between the parallel space of the outside to the inside, allowing the elements of Nature to enter the dwelling place of chaos. This allows reality to confront upon the circumstance and its environment. The Logos shudders the present by tearing the veil that covers the injustice with a dark mystifying smoke. The Logos focuses on the paradigm of knowledge and calls out the darkness to retreat away from the Light of truth and reason. The darkness recedes, and the dawn roars with the renewal of righteousness.

One day, day will not break. Today, it is a clever time to repair the break. Forward ahead, acknowledge fortification of the enduring and holy, Holy Spirit. Heavy then feels light, hearts are given reason to be happy. Heal the present for another time to give the present. Do know why, it is in the skies to see the expanse. We tell so the expanse can enter our heart with trust. All that enters mind, if spirit, it will find continuity. Leftover sloth is why there is time for stages. A reacting of spirit to the inner reaction of mind, the pretense is precedent, and we channel the truth, not secrets.

A college student could be seated at the back of the classroom and staring at you from behind with envy and jealousy, while you are unaware of their silent scrutiny of which they privately think about you.

“He is so ignorant and stupid I am telling you. He will never have a girlfriend with that attitude.” the student says after class to the woman that sits behind you.

You have thought of her as kind but only an acquaintance. And she is no longer sure how to think of you, as she was given the concern of how to evaluate what the other student has told her. Should she trust him. It has only been two weeks since this class began in the new semester, and she has not known you before.

Three weeks later in the semester, “Yeah, you know what, you are right, he thought I was his friend, so he asked me if I wanted to study later that night. I am already with someone.” the woman whispers to your accuser who had criticized you in secrecy.

You could not hear this exchange of words and remain to be unaware. Later during class, you see them swapping phones, you assume they exchanged phone numbers. Innocent and unknowing you are, of the plot turning against you. With no regard for you, the student allied with the woman to oppose you. You were only trying to be a friend and considered her to be approachable.

This is how the world dies. The unnecessary hatred, spite, and accusations passed between conversation with an unreasonable judgment handed over with a discreet handshake. They are entirely at fault for judging you. You have not expressed anything with an inappropriate intention, only a purely platonic interest. That conspirator, the college student, in the end happened to be more interested in the woman behind you. You are just more competition for him, right?

For the following two months the woman no longer was present in attendance to class. Still present in class, the other student kept returning to their seat in the back. One morning he is talking at the back of the classroom and appears to be having a charming interaction with his friends. You overhear the student telling them, “She deserves what is coming to her, she has no respect for herself.”

The end of the semester arrives perceivably quicker than its onset. You have not seen the woman that sat behind you since she stopped attending the class. It is safe to figure that she dropped the class.

You notice in the next year she was elected to be a member of the student government at the college you both attend. On your way to class one afternoon an odd incident happens. You and the woman are walking in a hallway and come to a crossing in separate directions, and she stops you.

“Hey, I remember you. Sorry we did not connect. That was a dark time in my life. I broke up with the guy I was dating, and my grades were plummeting. Life can really be something else, you know what I mean?”

“I know exactly what you mean.” you say in your response. And yes, you really understand. You have been there before. You both enjoy a short yet meaningful conversation with each other and connect on social media.

Five years later you are scrolling on your phone through your Instagram feed and see she recently posted new pictures. You do not talk to her anymore, but you reflect on how beautiful her spirit was for the momentary friendship you remember. You reflect for a moment and think, “I hope she is doing well.”

The emotions within us embody deeper meaning and create symbolic significance into our hearts. The emotions are the felt part of the inaudible narration that connects our story in life. We present them transparently with the words we choose to vocalize. And they are guided through love and wisdom if we equip our heart and mind. This is true authenticity. No one can assume, foreshadow, replace, or deny your existence and future. Every spirit has the capacity to show remarkable ingenuity every second. You take moments in surprise to those who attempt to predict you.

Train intensely for real personal autonomy. Your effort is responding to the moment. Truth of your subjective reality is that your personal autonomy is driven by your individual choice. We forecast our potential alone in future by knowing our heart and mind the best.

Those who carry envy in their heart seek the destruction of those whom they envy. Is social Darwinism natural? No, it is not. Social Darwinism by its nature is antithetical to the concern for any greater benefit. The paranoia in competition with others induces the great disaster of mankind. Social Darwinist belief willfully mounts the condition for enabling the way to human catastrophe. It is reversal from communal bonding for our social species.

Envy is one of the seven deadly sins. Envy is capable to lead a brother to fall to temptation of murdering his own brother. Hysteria, when felt, signals the action it accompanies as being senseless. The uncontrollable charged energy will assign immense regret to follow spiritual madness. Even to secular standard, it permits a grave social injury to occur. The intraspecific competition that becomes merciless in time is collective social cannibalism. This occurs once the quality of spirit in concern is thrown away into the unconscious. Social Darwinism ruling over reason is a sign of corruption.

Everyone has a role and not everyone is on the front lines. Therefore, by lack of purpose the survival over others is not legitimate. The proof is in the process, the transcendent nature of social science reasons pacifism the most intelligent outcome. Enlightened humanity will not compete with anything. Following advent of science guides, through principle we serve all purposes inherent to all of reality, life, and the universe.

Social Darwinism is an excuse for regressive social interaction. It is the orientation chosen to support the agenda of those in pursuit of their own antihuman sentiment. For in the world there is no existing hardline interest in the pursuit of intraspecific competition and hostility that is beyond situational. Rational competition exists no further than the extent of personal territory and ambition.

We cannot involve destructive intentions. In the animal kingdom the predator does not hate its prey. The predator devours the prey only because it needs food to survive. There is no hostility between the two. It is just a natural condition present in nature. For humanity and hostility in this world, the people seeking to destroy are unnatural and ungodly. Those wicked will attack people who are innocent. And their desire to do so does not originate from hunger. The destroyers and deceivers are the type who never will be permitted to enter the Garden of Eden.

I have not been in a relationship for a long time. I chose to focus on myself having a new aspiration. I chose to take advantage of the opportunity to improve myself while being a single man. I sought to embrace my love for other people. I purposed my effort to not privatize my love for only one person exclusively. Instead, I developed my love for everyone in this world. I remain with this attitude. I continue the work to obtain a further depth in my love for humanity and every person.

My favorite stranger has been there since the start. He remains stronger with me than ever. You can feel the strength of someone when touching their arms. You feel someone's love when their arms are around you. The strength and love both together become no longer strange.

The career of being a funeral director has been fulfilling. I enjoy showing compassion in my words and tone of voice to every family I have assisted during their time of loss and grief. Having the opportunity to show compassion toward another brings joy to me. Initially, I had aspired to be a funeral director when in my senior year of high school. I read a few books on the topic of funeral professions and the deathcare industry. Instead, I chose to attend university to obtain a bachelor's degree in the major Sociology.

Toward the end of five months or so in the year of 2019, I was stabilizing from the mental health episodes of my disorder. At this time, I made the decision to return to college. I took on the venture to become a funeral director. I decided this because I wanted to reclaim a part of the identity from when I was younger. Rather than leave behind this professional aspiration, I made the decision to pursue it. It was the correct decision for this period of my life, and it was a calling.

Figure there is a greater existence, a future made exceptional and for benevolence to be universal. The future would involve the qualities which one may imagine or reason to be in a true heavenly existence. The direction to this is just one dimension of time. The view is linear and singular, perceiving nature of high esteem in goodness, love, and truth. One decision, one mode, and one ultimatum. You have no reason to believe the confusion.

Someone may counter that your existence is how you choose to define it. This is unhelpful because it leads one to pursue their desires in ways that only serve the moment. To chase the pointless is to become pointless. The greater perspective watches while you determine how to evolve to be of greater help and impact.

It is unfortunate that people think religious and political identity is a trustworthy way to decide their judgment for another individual. Especially disturbing, people think this way is appropriate while having the belief that we are all made in the image of God. People can be confused about a belief. A person could have been told perspective that led to unethical or unrealistic view in their personal belief.

Consider understanding how a person exists truly in their soul, as separate to belief.

If they would know a better and correct perspective, how they would be. The social environment is what determines a person's social interaction with another social group, whether a different ethnicity, culture, or religion. Do they have strong and healthy love for people they have been taught to respect.

It is a folly to compare the fool and the sage. External reality changes. The one who understands reality is not inherently better than the one who is mistaken. Quality is different when based on its condition. Potential is quality at rest. Quality is potential in action. Everyone has the potential, yet unfortunately many are submissive to believe without reason. Yet, that does not determine their inherent value and potential.

If you took someone and enlightened them, how would all their good parts appear together when this person has a clearer perception? Do they have any good and benevolent qualities or emotions. Just a few positives are enough to give a person a chance to help be their best and to reform their negatives.

If there are no positives in situations, then would the person at their will plant potential for positives? If they want better people near, they are safe toward others beyond. For those who refuse to accept benevolence, they will reconcile with their fate. They will see where they end if they embraced the darkness. The shock of unspeakable terror strikes their soul, and they are forced to complete submission.

There will be no available room for the dark suffering to take further control and oversight on the Day of the Lord. When the Heavenly Father finalizes his divine, the tyranny will recede. It is soon your fate. Your hands touch each other and interact with your life. Your hands will not touch the life of all people in the future which the Divine will determine.

You know what love is, do you? Any love apart from romantic attraction. Attraction is a feeling. Feeling pushes toward emotion. The emotion does not pull the feeling. An example is a situation when there is no expectation. If someone in your life that you loved came back into your life, while you have the impression that the person no longer likes you, imagine they apologize to you and hug you unexpectedly. That is one of the levels of love that you will feel. There are many, many levels of love in general.

Your feeling of the hug pushed you toward having an emotion. The emotion did not drive the feeling because there was no expectation to have an emotion. The emotion can reassess feeling by the following consequences, though it is not the temperamental control of the matter. Ascend to the height of love, not your love alone.

Do you know goodness? The good that is more benefit to someone or a situation, doing what is morally right every time on the values of love, harmony, trust, honesty, and sincerity. If walking a market downtown in the city and you witness someone being good to another, would you know the action as good. A person approaches an unhoused person, and they give them help, is the action good. Is the action of sacrifice, love, or emotional susceptibility to feel ashamed if to not help?

The higher level of benevolence is acting with goodness without need for precedent or reason. Someone may help by desire to show love, and compassion is not an act of sacrifice or an emotional pressure. Someone can also feel inspired to act with spontaneous love. Be mindful with your actions. If a situation arises unexpectedly, take care not to involve yourself from self-interest alone. Monitor the situation. Know when to pause your will and when to act on it.

Leave aside the preoccupation to concern whether another person appears appreciative. For a person to be grateful has variables that are personal to that person. It is not about you. Know what your responsibility is and is not. It is important to love and give if we want a world that loves and gives freely.

Have you ever premeditated your behavior prior to interaction? Whether to express your love, introduce a concern, tell perspective on an issue, or inform a person that they hurt your feelings. To think and daydream about something before happening can handicap ability to interact in a genuine manner.

Sorting out your thoughts before interaction can then appear as if you already concluded what you think. This reflects in your speech. So, at the time of the interaction, someone may express themselves in unexpected ways. And previous contemplation affects your response and can make you appear dismissive.

This troubles the concern for resolution when the matter is not cooperative. Running through your lines and feeling the emotion prior to interacting disconnects the nuances that are felt in the premeditation. Since you have already felt your feelings, it leaves them feeling expressed, resulting in emotions to be displaced from the interaction. Feelings you are determined to express then have emotions already exhausted. In the premeditation and visualization, you have imagined the response they may have. So, in the moment, the original intention has been persuaded and the feeling departed due to your own concern prevailing over the issue itself.

When you have something important and serious to say to someone, do not go over your lines. Wait until the interaction itself. Forgo scratching the itch of the desire to assess your feelings and the situation before it becomes present and relevant. This may be a familiar experience to you, having done this before. Keep it present in observation. You will see this behavior of premeditation can inhibit an interaction prematurely.

What if you refrain from the premeditation and avoid acting on the pressure to do it? You open the pathway in mind for new behavior. Breaking out of habit leaves the monotony and amateurish behaviors. Creating new pathways to think and behave requires a conscious effort to redirect attention away from habitual and comfortable dealing.

When you respect this point to be patient and await an important interaction, you will discover that you will find the words at the time of speaking. Your phrasing and choice of words are often better for the situation. Act without all the preplanning. This is the way you express with a pure appearance. You will show authenticity and genuine open-mindedness with the way you respond to what may be expected or even unexpected.

Nobody deserves your wrath. No matter the circumstances that leave you to feel enraged. It is unhelpful to voice your anger and frustration in a manner that is raging or wrathful. The spirit cannot remain on fire for a long duration. The agitation makes the heart burn which puts the soul in the form of despair. The soul knows that its tie to spirit depends on the mind and heart to keep fair toward the living.

Emotions are a part of reflection through the eyes. Feeling will steady your eyes with perception. The gaze in your eyes tell the truth, especially if the feelings are intense. Sight can express emotion by sharing your point of view. Part of empathic connection involves mental practice of reorientation of eyes and mind to see a perspective separate from the ego. Of course, there are people unable to see further into our eyes and hearts to know our emotion and our intention.

Arrogant people will not recognize another perspective. Humble people will see another perspective simply to humble. We have the need to be responsible for our thoughts and feelings with controlled speech. The power in the mind is the knowledge to stop. Control your speech. And knowing the power and potential, you are present when you have self-control.

One strategy for successful autonomy is composure. When you wear your disposition on your face you reveal your motivations. We are at a time presently where there is need for discernment. The zealotry will ignite a flame that furies the world. The rebellion that calls the mortal drive to enrage for the eternal, it will shallow the hearts of many. If you become rash with the global reckoning your grip will slip with your intent zoning off, and your reactions grow further involuntary.

With strength in mind to hold intention, and the balance in heart to maintain clarity and with passion call in the collective hope to establish peace with the benevolence of the Heavenly Father. Prioritize compassion when managing conflict. Offering the common world wisdom settled in the heart and meeting for another's wisdom with readiness to gain understanding.

CHAPTER FOUR

THE FINE LINE

It is virtuous to develop self-control and reasoning. To prepare the decision of how to speak or act in response to a situation and its consideration. It requires conscious action to recover your self-control. It is equipped and maintained by your attention. Perspective is the key to patience. Shift your eyes and point your ears toward the details.

I may be pensive to my response while in conversation or when I am pressed to choose appropriate action or say the right words. We all have the capacity to be masterful with our own expression and self-presentation. The person seeks to improve their skills when in the pursuit of self-mastery. Appearing to be unaffected or disengaged, but they are truly realizing their potential, though reserved.

The Holy Spirit oversees your words and actions as the intercessory counselor between the Divine and your best interests. Aside from what you consider personally, the Holy Spirit ushers you toward what is correct. As a result, there always remains the choice of whether to adhere to being in tune with the moral and proper. Conflicts occur between belief, desire, and situation. More often, you have a degree of awareness of the right choice to make. It is not what ego may reflect best with its limitation in perspective. Knowing what is for the best holds near in the thought to consider what the Divine wants for you and others. Engaging in this practice will result in you being happy in the end.

The Holy Spirit resonates, impressing upon your reasoning not to do something which you have the urge to do. In the moment, you may not realize or understand why. The Holy Spirit and its reasoning are later known at the turn marked by a sign further down the road. And so later, you then understand how the Holy Spirit helped you.

Do you trust spirit or your gut instinct? The gut, where all emotions and thoughts are immersed into instinct, is the center of your feelings, both intellectual and emotional. The spirit and your gut instinct are similar, but the spirit is beyond your awareness, and your gut instinct is within your awareness. The spirit is a sort of inspiration that comes from above the mind. The gut instinct is a physical tugging. The intuitive function of the gut instinct is well understood by people and culture. The spirit is at a higher layer than the physical pull of the gut instinct. Spirit encompasses the realm of your thinking and further, it is metaphysical.

The situation when you withhold an urge and instead follow the guidance of the Holy Spirit will not be easy. There can be a deciding clash between both primal instinct and higher awareness beyond thought. Navigating through this clash is testing, a testament of the intuition. Initially, it can appear counterintuitive to your sensibility to disengage intellectual willpower to instead adopt the intuitive. It may seem like acting without any real intent or purpose. The experience does not have to be disorientating.

Have the patience to postpone the choice and await guidance of God. The Holy Spirit works to inspire inner speech. The discrete sense will prompt a new perspective. Refrain from your impulse. The initial attempt will feel like being forced to act against your will. Later, with trust you will become familiar and will make the choice to trust the Holy Spirit.

In Palms 19, the beginning four verses are as follows,

“The heavens are telling the glory of God; and the firmament proclaims his handiwork. Day to day pours forth speech, and night to night declares knowledge. There is no speech, nor are there words; their voice is not heard; yet their voice goes out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world.”

The communication of Heaven hovers the collective consciousness in daily life. Though the speech does not involve words, definitive sentence structure, nor is it accompanied by audio to perceive in a familiar way compared to spoken language. There is another urgency different than the one you see.

Urgent is the need to forfeit the illusion of reality as contained and impervious to outside influence and stay present. The perception that reality is stable and suited with our simple expectation, is in denial of recognizing we do not mandate existence.

The language we use to apply superficial definition to existence does not matter. Reality is unchanged. The attempts to evaluate existence into a pervasively uniform manner are naïve. The truth cannot itself be persuaded to avoid the paradox of reality. We do not alter reality, it is substance, and we are spirits that exist in its substrate. Local dimensions are the causal reality. The higher dimensions are not affected by the subordinate dimensions where causal reactions occur to develop and synthesize information.

The time we have spent becoming comfortable with life situations, like livelihood, can impact our ability to adapt to the changing circumstances ahead. Dispel the illusion life and the world will remain to be the same forever. The taught lie that the future is limited by the present perspective introduced a flaw to the psyche. Time unravels and conveys possibility. It does not linger and spoil the meaning inherent to creation.

An earthquake will demolish the property used for luxurious real estate in ancient and significant lands. Power cannot be under a clutch. It will never empower longevity of the weak and polluted minds who excuse grievous crimes with their shallow promises.

The mental construct develops our sense of knowing based on given information. What we seem to know, we construe and impose on the mystery of life. We change beliefs in our lives to fill in the gap, the question of why that pervades our existence. The beliefs try to explain the mystery.

Mystery does not originate from a belief. Therefore, belief cannot explain the mystery. Belief is subordinate to the mystery. Mystery can only be revealed by its origin and source of emanation. The upper, illuminated heavens know, the mystery can only be sorted by the Most High. The revelation is not property to the living or the dead. It is reconciled by the Heavenly Father revealing the true Nature of existence. It is the air that breathes itself, wind that steers itself, and a plant which feels itself.

Ah...

Uh...

Hm...

Formed in your contemplation is the fruit of your lived experience. What you are told in truth will show itself. What will be shown to humanity and the like, will be without question or doubt. The mystery cannot confuse nor be odd in its placement. It is the sense that makes itself. It is the ether that breathes concept. It is the mystery of God.

I have told those in my life that, sure, I had plenty of auditory hallucinations in the times I had schizoaffective episodes. I learned many things about imagination. I then often state that of these instances there was little I discerned to be of direct communication with the Divine.

I will tell of two proclamations coming from personal experience that I determined to be from the Divine. These two were, God is the Most High, and Divine Council. The concepts were beyond my knowledge at the time.

Neither was I ever aware nor knew God is called the Most High. I discovered later the term and its legitimacy. In perspective, I view the title as one to represent the supreme being. The term most explains the greatest degree and the high refers to the higher reality. The Most High as a title directly conferred to the greatest higher being that is God.

In the fall of 2012 in my imagination, I had perceived a higher order of deities. I imagined it to be a forum where deities of the pantheons convened to discuss the affairs and progression of the universe. I had perceived Metatron the archangel as director of this council. Moments after I was impressed upon in mind with the two words Divine Council, which at this time was another unfamiliar notion to me.

When medicated early in the next year, I discarded the notion and others to be meaningless. I figured they were random instances and only symptoms from my mental disorder. And for the next several years later, I sometimes thought about it. I continued to regard it as nonsense. Society kept me clueless to any significance by echoing the impression that schizophrenia can only be meaningless.

After so long I became curious and searched online the term “Divine Council” and quickly saw it was far from insignificant. Instead, it is a common thread carried through thousands of years. The Divine Council is a legitimate belief and the manner I perceived it was accurate.

Once I discovered the legitimacy it became evidential enough for me to begin taking these matters seriously. My faith was renewed, and I gained confidence in the potential of my mind and imagination. I also knew to embrace my relationship with God furthermore. Should we really invalidate mental disorders with stigma while overlooking their potential significance or utility?

There exists more than the surface. I hope you may acquire the discernment to correctly identify and manage intrusive thinking, mental noise, memory, conscience, impression, and imagination. The ability exists in reasoning to have a distinctive understanding for when the Divine communicates. It is not words that weigh. The wind moves you, there to be felt. You notice the presence of wind when focusing on your sense of feeling.

The Heavenly Father informs you of what you do not know, to your surprise, which is distinct from the information you know and expect. The Heavenly Father will enlighten you with revelation of perspective beyond your own. I wrote these books. I write only when inspired. Inspiration is clever like shiny revelation.

Restoration of the relationship between the collective humanity and the Heavenly Father unveils the stairway in between. It is a crossing before your eyes into your soul and toward the Holy Spirit within. We return to God in prayer. It is knowing that hold without sight, and meditation that communicates by its hum. The collective at present, humanity demonstrates it does not fully conceive of Heaven together.

The art of the Renaissance was an expression, showing the introspection of the time. The artists of the time had shared a vision of Heaven. Collective effervescence occurs when society aligns in mind and shares vision together. Reunification is a hallmark and feature to collective consciousness. The shared vision then introduces the inspiration that leads into reformation.

The connection to the heavenly planes was personal in the awareness of previous ancient civilization and prehistory, but it has been lost in the transmission of knowledge through the recent millennia. It just takes the first step of denying the impulse to reject the offering of perspective. The behavior to reject the truth is consequential of the attention spent convicting others with good intention. The remedy is to learn how to exonerate blame on others when truth prevails. This lesson teaches to avoid rash and preemptive judgment.

Deny consenting to will over blind sight and the risk for consequence of actions you want to take alone. Disarming the ego from defining your future is choosing to dominate by faith. The higher insight better leads you in faith to the perfect, centered destination. Signs noticed by your psyche and spirit will guide the soul in travel.

Who am I to say? I will not pleasure those demanding for an egocentric tangent they want to hear from me to counter it with their alleged superiority over me. I am writing honest and direct advice, and these practices I have done myself and found results. I described the steps to encounter, now it is your ability in faith to put into your practice the conscious approach to this life. To do so is your decision.

I told you what was never expected, how strong the desire to leave mundane suffering with no clear meaning and purpose. Personal oath to God, you, and faith through harmony, will connect your inner world to the height within perception of existence.

Enlisting in the will of God in mind and spirit should not occur through a social or religious movement with people. Inspiration from Spirit does not originate from the people around you. Those thinking the religious body is the cause for transcendent motivation will lead to mass hysteria. Sociopaths entertained by the mass hysteria work in unison to disguise hysteria as being an authentic zealous spirit. God is who motivates the spirit, not the pastor, church, opinion artists, or the grifters.

Here now is not the first universe, and it is not the last. The expansion of dark energy does not end the universe. The observed regression will halt before an end graveyard for eternity. Death will be countered by the ecstatic Light of resurrection.

The resurrection with new meaning handed down from the Divine, reality comes alive with new purpose. The dream encircles the grand dream at center. The divide toward center is the shift in existence itself. Each moment will allude to the direction of the origin, its ripple of time. This is what sight becomes when an individual has visual blindness. Sense of events become known by information instead of only sensation.

The mental plane operates through a third source of input. This is process of evaluation. Evaluation can expand perspective, and this will introduce an element of mediation for the responses you have to consider. Evaluation is affected by your intellectual calibration. The emotion and state of mind in control can finely improve the expanded awareness you receive amid the evaluation.

Understand that it is the evaluation which mediates information you have within spatial nature of mental awareness. Process more of what you could say or what you can do through expanding awareness and evaluation. The best thought may be down the line of thinking. Do not discourage the process, open your mind to enable the optimal outcome.

For example, when walking around a corner you see someone with a threatening weapon. If you have innately a serious demeanor, you will have a sense of flow. The flow allows the mind to function on its sense of information and awareness. Without egoless control, the mind can be overtaken by emotion and react to fear. The shockwave in emotion is only to trigger a reaction. If you view it by event only, you can establish the mind firmly and act with a strategic and adaptive response.

The sight of the accurate future could be witnessed by foreknowledge, or by a ripple of time felt through premonition. For each of the directions, the chain linked between the cause and effect is linear. The linear reality does not suggest the time is bound to the cause or effect. The present free will allows versatility to the end circumstances. The ripples in chain reaction are contained by counteracting forces that hold the boundaries.

Game theory loses function beyond simple space and time. Higher dimensions break the apparent laws of physics through introducing possibility. The control over possibility itself occurs top-down through reality. You will not know the ineffable center without the journey of each world we will venture.

Having foreknowledge is earned by humble effort in impartial retrospection. This level of knowledge is experiential. General knowledge concerns the fact of the matter and unable to know differently.

If you are both able and willing to remain in control to say the right words, to wait for the right moment, then your soul will pilot lucid control of body and mind. The ability children hold inside is a clear and innocent intuitive. Such is lost from becoming lost in the world. The innocence of the intuitive has clarity.

Innocence is the submissive pathway to the Divine. Innocent conscience is not burdened with a restricted agenda of wants and needs. A soul discovers its innocence by being its own pure nature. Unbiased, unfiltered, unperturbed and undiminished. A soul with a revealing love and clear mind will shine by its humility. Your awareness is passive to understanding that does or does not become wiser with age.

The fools condescend to children, and the wise elders hear because children are recent to the world from prior existence. Everyone either listens to the Heavenly Father seated most high above all creation, or else turns their back and models their own shadow. A shadow appears in size much differently than the figure it is cast from.

Two spirits cannot procreate another. The Divine only can create spirit. The spirit of the divine essence is connected to life. Two lovers have a child together. The baby is born with a name described by parents, and its spirit of life is given to it by the Divine. This occurs at first breath.

In the Sumerian creation myth, Enki shapes the created being with clay. Sculpting with clay in process is symbolic of gestation. Next is the infusion of the breath of life with body and it begins. The first breath is the moment the baby experiences objective reality. Life during the gestation process has presence but not its own experience until the first breath occurs.

The universe is set forward ahead from the previous existence. The big bang theory is this time moving forward, the reversal of entropy, though it does not encompass everything to exist. If the seeker and scientist have wisdom to complement their own understanding, then shortcuts begin to appear.

Stories explain creation. Existence is creation in experience. And God is of stories. The story begins and ends with God. So, we continue and experience stories in existence that explain creation. Do you see the future?

Observe the key words in a sentence. The instinct and impression are a more natural tool of assessment versus the biases taught socially and improperly to most situations. The spirit transcends our condition by aspiration, not to be wedded to the hungering and primal urge.

Embrace the tugging at your heart for you to show love and compassion. Each moment becomes timeless and authentic when the spirit has its natural expression, through mindfulness and heartfelt contemplation. Kinder inner nature will harmonize with your conscience, leading you nearer to the Holy Spirit. If the goal is to heal then set the daily reminder.

Consciousness must sustain. Continue to hold presence in the moment. Do not become sedated by losing your focus on the narrative. For another view, overfocusing on the future you are concerned about will limit potential. Do not idealize your desired actions or future. Look away from the future that appears static. Surprise your potential by ascent away from your preconceptions. No matter what seems to be, preconception can deactivate the present and active consideration.

The inner play of heart and mind in true faith consents for the company of the Holy Spirit, much like opening the window to outside when the house is too warm. The weather is cool, like stepping aside to consult the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit has an eternal familiarity with your emotion and pensive nature. Some regard this presence as Source. That is another view. That is just a different use of language for the same knowledge.

The Holy Spirit is the counselor sitting with you within your introspection. The great spirit is here to heal our fallen state. Early in our life as children the Holy Spirit was developed within our intuition and awareness. When children come across situations with a moral issue, they take a pause within, and with their instinct and intuitiveness, they attempt to view the matter from a higher perception. It is in our soul that the Holy Spirit acknowledges. The psyche is connected to mind and heart.

At the height for reason between the good and bad, focus of the ray in perception is honed through your wit. Your keen intelligence and mental sharpness decipher course of action. The accountability for a situation determines your involvement and will in response. The Holy Spirit oils the lantern for good choices to enlighten by trust and faith.

There are always bad attempts to snuff the truth. Wolves prey on an individual's fallibility and disbelief. They discourage clarity by the announcing of prevailing questions and calling for answers. They deceive through paradox, telling you to solve their puzzles that only connive into their vision of Hell. They persuade public dialogue to focus on the opposite side of where the real concerns are. They diminish the views able to identify the truth of a matter. They suppress and target voices that open gap for revelation. They rely on pushing the confusion needed to overlap and conceal their agendas.

The internal battling of negative influence on souls will not cease completely until open revelation strikes down the demons. As you become wiser and more understanding, your soul and capability to discern will strengthen. For some, the hopeless, they will find an even greater challenge. The Holy Spirit stays with you in faith, so decide to nurture relationships to become further aware of all else.

If someone believes their personal strategy is sufficient alone, and are unwilling to heed a better approach, they are handicapped by their ego. The stubborn identity is not resilience. It is misaligned and not growing more. Personal interaction with the Holy Spirit and domain of divinity is accessible.

The inner temple where the Holy Spirit is offered its place must have its needed dignity and honor. Access to the inner temple is through good intention, love, and internal receptivity to the Holy Spirit. Furnish your soul and inner temple with your comfortable love. Be hospitable to the good and innocent part of the Holy Spirit. See your reflection in its benevolence. Accommodate and nourish the good spirit within you. Feel the space within from opening your heart. See the interior and lay the carpet for the Holiness to have proper escort.

If a person dominates the inner mind with egocentric dialogue, subconsciously they will condition the dampening of quiet help which exists from beyond their consideration.

What you look up to will be what you seek your direction from. What is related to will then become involved. When you look up to the Divine, you are relating with God through heavenly quality. Look, there is existence here and somewhere across the world. There is possible space for the past or future. Witness heavenly existence and nature being positive, fulfilling, and supportive. The good in heart will establish its union in time with the Holy Spirit. The unification of all goodness in divine spaces is the territory of ultimate benevolence and the Divine. The property of truthfulness, righteousness, and fairness, is the holy expanse and reign of Light.

Become more familiar with your heart and good spirit. Seek love and kindness. If you look up to the Divine, you are advised to encompass the nature of divine aspiration and its natural order. Think of the Holy Spirit in the present. In sight of mind is not knowledge alone, it is the recognition that there exists more than what is obvious to immediate perception. Following the direction of something greater allows your willpower to align with a greater benevolence and the Divine.

When the ego no longer is taking full sail of your soul, in spirit you are then led by resting your heart and introspection on the Holy Spirit within. The alignment of spirit will resonate with the good heavens and bring insight. Free will does not give security if you focus on what you cannot control beyond yourself.

Handle free will with the limited choice to align with cosmic order and the benevolent purpose. The tempered responsibility of this will grow a personable relationship with the Holy Spirit and God. The intimate ground with the Divine will sternly request accountability and transparency.

Does it really take so much effort in concern to develop a recognized relationship with God and with the Holy Spirit? Yes, it should. Having a good heart is not effortless, many do know.

And many seem annoyed with expectation of goodness and the requested accountability for their words and actions. I say in confidence that God is not concerned whether a person is religious or nonreligious. Primarily concerned is the heart and mind being sound and assuring with good intention.

The Son of Man upon arrival for the Judgment of the Nations is clear with the line for the decision to be made. This is a scripture I reference when I stand by the point that God is not focused on religious identity (or lack of).

“When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on the throne of his glory. All the nations will be gathered before him, and he will separate people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep at his right hand and the goats at the left.”

Matthew 25:31-33 (NRSV)

The verses that follow, after what I have quoted, commend the sheep at the right hand for being giving, welcoming, compassionate, nurturing, and thoughtful. The focus is having these behaviors, especially for those who are marginalized; the homeless, those thirsty and hungry, the foreigner, and the one who sits alone in prison.

The ones to the left, the goats, are then called accursed. It is apparent in this section that these people were selfish and unforgiving toward others unprivileged and marginalized. The people who needed help, these goats did not listen to them.

It is well understood that the judgment is of the heart. It is not based on identifying with any religion of the world. For you following this lesson, and concern its warning of impending judgment, is to heed the future and coming kingdom. The future is not based on the global politic of religion.

In my previous writing, I discussed previous universes. There are a few points to still make. The previous universes were further basic in manifestation than this existence now. Reality following you will develop in complexity, and you follow the aspects of its nature. Effectual meandering among the middle of matters that echo from the journeyed time from the earlier of existences.

The journey toward supreme existence, the existence unmatched by anything we know, is far off into the future but not out of reach by any means. It is a strict temper and passive walk toward the ultimate benevolence of the Most High. The person cannot pass further to higher dimensions when they are threatening, spite-driven, and selfish.

This is why in Matthew 18:3-5 Jesus Christ says, "I tell you the truth, unless you change and become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. Therefore, whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. And whoever welcomes a little child like this in my name welcomes me."

Children are innocent, heartfelt, and open-minded. The child is willing to trust a person who shows authentic love and support. They can identify and sense genuineness. Children do not judge people based on their differences. Children want to be happy. They enjoy being silly and like to roleplay. They effortlessly can entertain the inspired imagination.

There comes a moment in every child's life when they are upset or depressed. Nurturing parents would teach them to be honest about their feelings and love them. Though, there are people who tell them to stop being weak and be tougher. It is destructive to a person's spirit to be told their feelings do not matter. In the due result of blunting emotions of the children, many begin repressing their feelings from that day forward. They develop concern on how to cope. They start to avoid their own frustrations and sadness, and believe there is no way somebody can help them.

When humanity stays true with the sacred commitment to the goodness, it will start with a few. The few become the leaders of the new era. At present, people can become distrustful due to instances of the hatefulness and wickedness which parade as good deceitfully. The disconcerting mirage of good tampers with the individual perspective because it then demands the need for discernment.

Within this period of transition, we are also learning the height of goodness. For most, it is best witnessed through first-hand goodness in action. A rhetorical or speculative scenario of someone being good is not enough, which is understandable. Though it details the example to achieve, serving as a suitable moral lesson. Whether it has been attained yet or not does not matter. A teaching moment is upon any circumstance for the overview of recent happenings to view for a moral lesson.

How do you understand and define sin?

This is a question I have pondered in recent years. I thought of ways sin may be interpreted or defined. I came to conclusion about the way it may be thought of. Sin is an evil impulse. It is the distraction of desire itself. In later writing I will discuss how sin is understood by a more academic definition.

What intention may a person have? Do they devise plans to harm another person or benefit themselves. Do they plan for something that is unethical. Is the intention for an issue selfish or helpful. Does the plan fulfill a personal agenda. Is there intent to take advantage of someone, no matter who.

Intent can be scaled, remember. The person may do something manipulative only because of the intention to help or mediate a conflict. Therefore, they had positive intent while also knowing that consequence may arise. It could also be helpful, but the person may ultimately have the negative intention to take advantage with their kindness.

Life is not black or white. Treating matters like hardline policy with such naivety disregards the nuances present with people and situations. Nobody can judge the others. Our actions and words judge ourselves. Fairness must be recognized. You should act on good values. There is no need to make an assessment without advice you have been given. Internally there is a chart for values. Your own doing to others will be done to you.

The entity known as Satan is devious and harmful. No humble attitude wants to be God or a god. It is naïve to practice decision-making in the perspective you are your own personal god. This perspective grooms someone into darkness. Separation from God is too horrible for words. I warn you to never seek selfish gratification and never deny the Most High. The worlds above are not places where serving yourself with narcissism reflects as something positive to collective creation.

Choose yourself or choose the benevolent Most High. Satan (Lucifer) aggressively tempts the world by his covert influence. He spells a person to dream of desires for them to fulfill sinful fantasies. He attempts to maneuver the personal thinking to decline in principle.

If a person wants a fancy car, upon receipt of the car their desire will not be resolved in a complete sense. Next could be the desire for a fancy personal jet. Desire cannot be resolved. They cannot fill the body, mind, or soul.

Food can relieve our hunger temporarily. There is purpose with food and life the hand that feeds. Hunger grounds us in daily life. It reminds us that food and water are a temporary sustenance. So, we look toward what endures. It is careless to feed yourself in excess. The temperance in spirit orders there shall be no waste. The upheaval of natural order leads to the destruction of resources in consequence. A lawless free will cannot excuse itself beyond the aftermath. Be aware of the harmful potential of desire.

Practice being humble. Refrain from entertaining desires. Living in the United States is challenging by relentless temptation. There is no such thing as adult content. If content is not appropriate for children, it is not appropriate for adults either. Inappropriate content and recreation available for public consumption harms the social condition. This is not about outlawing sexuality or condemning recreation. It is about incentivizing a respect and modesty for what is represented in the public sphere.

The present predicament is we must defy temptation within a society that is immersed in it. To honor morality and ethics are two things. It is a personal and collective responsibility. I understand how many Christians are troubled in never feeling good enough for Jesus Christ because I have felt that way before. Though, it is not our calling to scale up to the majesty. The belief we could measure up the same as God is the worm hidden in the apple. It results in a taste that is bitter and causes sickness. There is no good reason to try to excel beyond God. To incentivize power to gain authority over the Good in Nature is to immediately be separated from the Glory of God.

Having to handle our actions and words is our journey. Everyone is the head of their own personal impact. With challenging situations there is expectation. Living with consequences to our reactions are trials as we walk through the days.

We are to walk a fine line. It is discerned by humble awareness of knowing fallibility and resisting the descent into the black hole. You are not a rabbit. You do not go down a rabbit hole that is unmade for you. The hole empty with a lurking underground fanaticism will be sealed. Do not be caught underground. We do not dig down. We are to walk a path forward. To continue ahead, do not be distracted from your footing. Do not place your stance to rival others for a cause offered by other malicious people. Our sovereignty, when with personal allegiance to the Divine, is our able nature to divorce temptation, hatred, and opposition.

Find your way while in the scope to abide in principle to the Heavenly Father. We do not decide for ourselves alone. God fills the blank of the remaining unknown, making adjustment for our benefit in faith. It is the walk continuing to maintain your introspective awareness and personal accountability.

There is a present corruption in institutions of religion. When the world becomes a stage, the spotlight only may focus on one actor at a time. The world system designs power to raise the volume of spoken words to be heard with whoever holds the megaphone on stage. False religion is rising in power. It is demanding for focus. Not only in its fraudulent call promising resolution, but by instinct the world knows the beast system is catching the public eye by its form growing as a massive threat to humanity. It is effortlessly overtaking the narrative being spoken on the world megaphone.

The drought of meaning in life only serves the mirage of a paradise in the desert. The overwhelming and desperate ideology hungers to divide the line. It is turning the people against others. Those pastors who call upon others to behave with brute force are disillusioned and lack humility. When the church leaders find themselves aligned with military leaders it then becomes another end to civility and obedience to the Heavenly Father. The Divine cannot be viewed through a foggy lens of perspective that holds contradiction and confusion.

The truth finds you when aligning with love, servitude, and benevolence. Alignment instills the gradual progress for the internal world in its harmonization. It is when the heart meets the mind, when the story knows the meaning. Through my own journey in between atheistic and theistic agnosticism, strong was my hope to satisfy my need for understanding creation through a scientific lens. It is tough to discover when you believe there is only one way to know better. The practical rational mind will never exhaust its effort because it overlooks the motives behind creation itself.

You must be open to the Heavenly Father to be granted answering to the mystery crucial to knowledge. I will give you imperative advice that was essential for me at the beginning of the journey: listen to your heart. Listen to it, just know what it is saying and feeling. There is no need to act on it alone.

Do not listen to the noise of those with no conclusion. They are skeptical because they do not know. So, recognize the skepticism for its own insecurity and do not decide with it. The questions that remain unanswered currently are not yet prepared for the proper response. Time and patience await. The truth matters in the moment it is articulated with its response specially fitted to the scenario.

Find the light and ease of grace motivating your heart to feel ways and beyond. The space within should not be void. It is prepared as the temple within for the appearance of something much more meaningful to fill its place, when your insight supersedes rationality, when the compass recalibrates toward north.

When your compassion is verified by how you act, your heart is then evident to all those around. Notice that your foundation becomes fertile ground. The settling of silence where further wisdom and understanding from higher knowledge begins to form within allows you to begin to know more than others around you. The Heavenly Father imparts to the souls who entrust good faith a sacred responsibility. To not taint the light that is from the aspirational future. When maturity proves itself, God will make you further responsible for the works of his holiness.

The present is inspired by the past, and the future ahead is aspired by the present. These two directions of time have purpose. No one side is greater than the other. To shift priority to the future neglects the present and injures the past by a mistaken awareness. Touch every day with some hope to sustain the discourse. It is not the matter whether the world transpires into the Heavens, it is the matter that if we are patient to hold and carry on.

CHAPTER FIVE

TO EXPRESS OR NOT

We cannot learn the universe in a complex way at first. Instead, we must learn the universe in a more basic way than even particles and atoms. First, comprehend the pattern and organization in the universe. This may be done using a recognition for concept. Second, imagine and reason for the creative functionality resonating with inherent purpose for the proposal of why the universe exists.

It is not necessary to understand the origin of the universe in a complex way. It can be understood in simple ways that do not necessitate scientific analysis. The universe requests your intuitive observation. Form a creative analysis. To ponder and then clarify all that we know and work it up. Or, make note of all that we do not know, sketch it from top down. We make considerations and do not rule out possibility.

Physics is no use without function. Function determines the purpose and equations result. Our universe cannot exist without an equation. Its result is resolved by the long-term objective reality which formally serves the function.

The universe did not appear without prior determination and preconceived purpose. It would not exist without an equation. And so, it can be stated that nonexistence would prevail without the function. Concept of nonexistence is the uncreated. Nonexistence is a state within existence itself. The whole cannot be divided by zero itself. Nothing starts before zero, not even one. Zero is vacant but the root of all technical significance.

We live on with the memories of our loved ones who have passed away. We spend time internally having spiritual visitation with them. There is a time when these memories come to visit us. Life is animation by spirit.

Many coexist on a mental plane of which they suffer and are vulnerable to change. Your consciousness unfolds the perception of the world in your mind, and you live through it. Consciousness is a phenomenon and the magic the world only knows this far. Eyes transmute vision to perceive by consciousness. Ears dial into sound by awareness. Make peace with your consciousness. Accept fate, do not reduce yourself to zero by rejecting Heaven. I have discussed that existential stress promotes the conscious evolution of spiritual awareness.

You are not here simply to make decisions to change your life on Earth. You are here to revise with inner divine aspiration. Looking forward and up. Humanity is to be keepers of the universe. Protecting stability is the destined servitude of humanity in the universe, in its role to the Heavenly Father. It is not a burden. This service is a meaningful directive to have. This will be better learned one day.

Inspiration in the world is invocation of the necessary and revolutionary improvement for the collective vision. Travel the Light of Spirit from your inner gateway to the higher domain into the execution of willpower. Direct your willpower to benefit from your inner source rather than using ego to benefit the mundane exclusively. Fuel your motives by action and rest each night to perform your willpower the next day.

Existence is like reading a book. That is all there is. This is what eternity is like. So, honor every story as meaningful and have fun when you can. It will all get much better over time. Though, not before it gets darker and terrible. Learning goodness and love are invaluable. Your passion is your becoming of the role as your part in the story. Passion is the fire inside embracing love and motivation.

Life puzzles us with the appearance having complexity. Pieces of our life are taken away over time. When our life is taken apart, with all remaining we realize our life was put together for an even greater picture. Knowledge assists in determining the additional nuance in actions and decisions. Personal sovereignty inspires others by demonstrating a unique perspective with clarified intent. Your personal impression of all things creates reflection in your soul. We see the way you view us by what we see in your eyes.

You can spread light when speaking vitality into collective vision. Disperse shadows by the strength of exalting the light in truth. Truth is a great emanation from heavenly realms. Truth cannot be determined, as it already is, and can only be discerned. Values and virtues you hold deliver the directive to your actions and words. Uplift the self to hold mindfulness near to your conscience. Respect your feelings by honoring others, so you are received well and feel well. Others may continue to sleep in awareness. In their formless submission they can impact yet see no consequence to their own power.

Do not mirror negativity with positivity. You cannot be positive toward the negative. Doing so only continues the perpetuity, dissonance remains to be enticed. The chains will remain in strength, pulling them apart only makes them stronger. This is how darkness works. Your struggle to resolve it only reveals your own weakness and vulnerability. So, do not oppose or combine darkness with light.

The Light repels the darkness. It does not partake in endless infighting. It separates itself. It will not comingle or seek common ground with darkness. The ending will not entertain space for darkness. One making the choice to avoid separating from darkness will endorse their victimhood and erosion. They look with their eyes stricken as if clueless, they know but they spite the truth.

There is no victim when there is no suspect. Evil cannot perform when there is nothing which remains at the will of evil. Satan is the suspect of adversity by forming accusation. He turns around perspective and forms opposition between the split in perspective held by others. Calculated acts of dissonance will enable the disconnect to prevail which is the precedent for the formation of deceit, disorder, and disillusionment.

Emphasize love and beauty in every soul so they may value and take pride in it. Spiritual harmony is offered by enduring appreciation, bringing great vitality to the whole of Nature. Affirmation and praise are profound forms of expression to enable the growth in the soul of another. We are here to light up others and our souls in spirit. We give our effort to ourselves and others with the same equity and liberty to direct the future.

You determine time as being linear to your effort. You increase the speed in our collective progress with renewed willpower and determination. Service the divine agenda. Serve the collective purpose of humanity and initiate its journey. This is more than Star Wars, this is profound.

You are a created Spirit that came from the World of Spirit. You share the same quality of nature with Heaven and the celestial. Angels exist as the support staff, and you are on the front stage to handle the dramatic performance the universe awaits. Time began here. Divine intervention begins now. As you cry amid the revelation you will feel your tears in profound joy, an infinite joy. We are here and I also cry these tears for the anticipated future I know of and you all hope for.

Dreams exist of formative energy and then establishing reality creates them. The supreme reality is the maximum of existence in dreams. Dreaming while asleep? Not quite. I reference the experience of imagination alive in realms set above waking consciousness. So, if we opt to respect privilege of having an imagination, what dream will we see?

Supreme reality is the intra-version of all existence in the expression of infinity. It is the primal origination that is the maintenance and creative control to inspire ultimate direction for all of creation to pursue. What subdues the soul must be undone. Undo misconception, confusion, doubt, and any involvement with the evil impulse.

The term 'sin' from an academic perspective refers to miss the goal or fail. It occurs in the event you misguide yourself away from pure intention. To fall away for a bad deed in any scenario and to mismanage your role and your participation with all existence.

People see from a carnal perspective. They regard futility as the ultimatum. They do not consider any impact beyond what could come after death. Your wildest dreams are not yours. Rather, there are worlds that ascend beyond suffering, a life without suffering for eternity. Your complaint is suffering so what if that all ends. How do you answer now?

This book is an existential shock as it faces the overseeing dominant reality. The ones in disbelief will continue their humiliation. For a reader to see further, they need the personal connection beyond thoughts and hopes born. Entertain your thinking of the heavens divine to the extent that it is well beyond my ability to communicate. Do you know of the calling?

We all have a calling to creation.

It is your honor and part in creation. Hope is the wellspring which gives life. Life follows hope as the direction to the promise of future existence. Time moves to follow the motion toward perfect reality. Ahead where existence is ruled with ultimate contentment in its final fulfillment. The universe exists as an inspired imagination, one that involves the Divine and you. Try to look toward the imagination God has for your future. What perspective should one be looking for? View yourself from the perspective of the Heavenly Father. Envision the creator proud and loved.

Mark does not exist. I have no alter-ego. I have only continued beyond what may be known as the immediate concept of self. My mind is seated behind the obvious, my truth is not simply known. You are not going to notice. Get over being concerned with me. My actions and words will carry their purpose. I was never here to impress anyone.

You search as the finder to the imagination. The discreet agreement and yet universal goal is to embrace the Divine. Make your declaration for achievement, aspiration, and purpose with the Divine. If successful, have great reward. You are a warrior opposed to the darkness. You are a cleric to heal the fallen state. You are chosen to uplift the universe and help achieve cosmic renovation. If the Heavenly Father had seven days to create Earth, then what would a thousand years be in the same proportion of time? It is an era definitive of God, not us.

Soon Heaven will further present to us and be immediate to our perception. It is without surprise that in the next era we will collaborate in decision for the next steps to take. The grand universe is boundless so, express or not? In this moment I will express regardless. What one expresses is self-decided and personally timed. I just want to help. It is because I believe in the reader. At this point in the reading, I will go deeper in depth toward the truth of what I know.

Odd coincidence, or perhaps a significant moment? Any time where you are drawn into the moment to ponder is a time you are called to think. Docility is the quality you condition to have willingness to sense the order above, that is calling your heart and mind. You must be docile to the Heavenly Father if you ever want a greater purpose in the universe.

You are of minor help when you use your life for yourself and nothing else. No service to a higher objective if one persuades oneself to believe there is no purpose. If disinterested in serving the greater good, you will not be given rank. It is not damning to have no interest in serving an active and crucial role in the Divine plan. Though it does mean your future has less challenge to endeavor. This can be fine, and a person can be completely content. Heaven knows that not everyone is going to want to take on a mission, and that is completely okay.

If a bridge between science fiction and the end of this world is connecting, then good. The future is not to be disinteresting. Humanity is purposed to become intergalactic. We will claim residency in outer space. I am sure any reader that reaches this point in reading will know how to take me seriously. Anyone who thought my sentiments were delusional would not have read past the first chapter in A State of Mind.

The meaning of life is discovered by making a commitment to life. There are three primary motives in the foundation that maintains the universe and its stability: servitude, recreation, and belonging.

The service to care for living creation. To nurture animals, plants, Nature, and our home in the Universe. The recreation of dancing and singing, celebration, and creative expression. The feeling of belonging, love, and admiration for others. Do you understand the discussion? Anyone with a soul will identify the venture being proposed.

The soulless are unable to see anything other than bleak outcomes, death, and misery. The soulless people are rivaling against the property that gives life itself. The undead whom are natives to the hollow animate into apparitions to provoke the fear necessary to scare living creation into universal death. The lifeless gave up life itself. Now to screech the undying misery in darkness where happiness decays.

The wicked elite in this world have formed an agreement with the underworld, Sheol. This is referenced in the book of Isaiah. I wrote in the past about the process of corruption. The actions taken by someone disregarding their good conscience, to invest in hedonism and reprehensible acts. A person who led their life participating in unmistakable evil will face the circumstance early on.

There is a threshold where the individual recognizes that their evil deeds are conduit to a final destruction. They know that through their actions and spoils, they become further unfavorable to Heaven. What will they do in their response to the concern? Some of them may commit themselves to a repentance. And unfortunately, some will double down on the negligent and wicked behavior. After choosing to have commitment to their evil deeds, they recognize they have proven their evil nature. In concern of an otherworldly fate, they begin to think of alternatives.

The alternative the hidden group of people have found is making an agreement with Helel. Helel is the heavenly being who fell from grace because of pride. Helel defied the Heavenly Father. He refused reverence for humanity. Helel is better known as Lucifer or Satan. He was cast out of Heaven and now presently in Sheol, the underworld. Those corrupt and evil humans who spite the Heavenly Father and goodness have sworn their commitment for a rewarded false salvation Helel has promised to return for worship. The wicked and corrupt elites and constituents have become familiar to the fallen angels.

Helel has formed a guarantee to the fallen humans that they will have a place made for them in the underworld if they turn the world toward darkness. The abominable offense of the underworld court is the rebellion against the Heavenly Father. The dark curtain actors in the world continue to signal with subliminal and overt worship to Helel. The procedure has been carried out for generations.

Faith is a balance of belief and knowing. A person is not simply converted through direct experience and insight. The doubt we have in our actions are skepticism when we act alone. It is enough to be alone and solitary. There is a strength in inaction. Taking the break to hold away from compromise. So, if you feel uneasy then consider the sound of silence. It speaks easy and gentle. It is resilient to bear patience in the still silence. To know crafting fortitude in life is knowing the silence for what it is. This very moment apart is a time for waiting.

My anxiety drifts between my conscience and my knowledge. Morally I must remain in the dwelling of my heartfelt compassion and reason in mind. I will not scowl with anger and my face distorted. I will show love and give space for others to grow humbly. I will stay in a central space of divine offering, which is the arena acting only within the rights established before me. I almost lost my footing more than once, admittedly so.

It is responsible to know the fine line, and it declares you to follow it well. While my heart wants to stop the world, my soul wants to help the world. And my spirit knows its allegiance, the Heavenly Father. I will not provoke the act toward my heart's favor to stop the world. I will not emphasize any evidence that our everyday life has a misalignment. If disharmony seems obvious, then I must realize grace in allowing space and time to weave divine timing itself. I cannot apply pressure to the cracking of lands. Instead, I will support the frictionless cure of using an astute and coordinated patience.

Grace pardons the hearts of many so there is no burden too heavy to wear. Is it gravity or mass that makes the collision between forces. The mass in creation and the worlds which gravitate are like the responsibility specially fitted in sovereignty of the Heavenly Father. The role is to follow grace through the story, the aspiring fate that leads the intuitive. With the respect for natural order, to not clash with the waters determined to overtake the shore for just a moment. Time calls while it is known the distance traveled before our arrival. High energy and high stakes are a dilemma of haste.

Breathe in and breathe out...

The complicated life is not settled through frustration. It is resolved by wonder and faith. Where are we or do we simply graze the grass in fields? The state of action shifts with the turning of the clock. The calling future seems dissonant. Though its mystery compliments the present, as the significance makes the past resonate further. The wavering drift knows the direction of time in the way it is guided. Either respect the pattern of flow or be caught in the storm drains. We respect difficulty, that is how challenges are overcome. Being mindful to the outcome of our actions and words.

It is inauthentic to serve only in the interest of self. It is unoriginal, everyone could opt to be selfish. Whether a person creates music or art, it is done to express the self, not to serve the self. The isolated space of mirrors turned inward then becomes a madhouse driving the ego toward a false sense of godliness. We all hold the divine spark, but it shines outwardly to show our inherent divine origin. We express our vision. The refraction of our creative sight reveals the inner divine spark. Do not do this to manage an impression. Share with others. Everyone does a part having the universe shine even brighter.

CHAPTER SIX

SOVEREIGN WINGS

We are a set of wings that fly to effectively travel for the Divine, the Most High. We train to fly amid our purpose. The birds are gifted wings to meet the ends of the world. And we are aimed at meeting the ends of the universe. The spirit in flight is that we love to shine our inner divine spark. Embracing that spark is knowing God. You will enjoy your flight to the ends of the universe demonstrating the spirit within you. The opportunity to show nature of your ordained potential is accepting your offered role in divine intervention into the universe.

The manner of how my life progressed was not entirely my choice. The choice instead has been how I place myself in reaction. If I had chosen not to be mindful to how my character has progressed, the inclination to serve myself would be an even stronger temptation. Instead, I have the intent to place myself after concern for the Divine and people.

I seek to be identified as an ally to a kind stranger. I continue being absent in my concern with my effort focused on the wellbeing of others. I see a downfall in view of searching to impress myself. Existence is better lived for creation and not the self. With connection to all as far away we remain mutual in our love. This happens regardless of whether it is with your neighbor across the street or your online friend on social media. We maintain relevance in all of importance by etching into the heart.

And the purpose for humanity?

There are seven divisions of Heaven which were illustrated by ancient civilizations. Three of these divisions are better known to us. The first heavenly domain exists from the planet terrain toward the height of the atmosphere. The second heavenly domain is the reach of the universe including outer space and stars. The third heaven is the heavenly abode of God and angels. Everything beyond your time in creation comes after you. Learning what came before will be a gradual realization.

Humanity will navigate for God in the divine objective for the physical universe. And so will humans be the spiritual keepers of the second heaven. A little over the head it may seem but, is also a beautiful purpose. So, what makes it meaningful?

The meaning of creation extends from the present to beyond time itself. The universe is formed miraculously, though the premise of existence is not singular. The universe dwells within one space for all possible events. The lifespan of the universe receives its delivery of time from the eternity above dimensions. The universe cannot create its own time. Finite temporal reality is conceived from eternity where time is endless. The universe has a limit to its temporal nature and the time it does have was given to it.

The purpose of challenges and struggles in life is to cause the friction in which the mind must adapt and react. Difficulty is the exercise in which consciousness develops. The tension amounts in situations which then demands a reaction adjusting mind and spirit to motivate development. The awareness of consciousness is focused when its attention is demanding by instinct for survival. Subjective experiences can enhance consciousness and awareness especially when strenuous.

There is a life review at the finality in which the spirit looks back once more. There is also a life preview where the spirit looks ahead into their life ahead prior to consenting to the life they live. Ambitious spirits decide for tough lives when knowing the sentimentality and the reward for growth. Intensive reality provides greater challenge and opportunity compared to a mundane living.

For some it is much easier to toggle off the mental switch for comprehension and choose disbelief. It is easier to assume a discussion as nonsense than abide with mental effort to see without the biases of self. It makes sense but there seems to be no inherent substance to what is said. But why something is said can be more substantial than what is said, existing on the border between meaningful preexistence and the unabsolved existence.

Mark would rather stand by. Not within my nature to say anything but the action to express is fundamentally crucial in creation. What is the difference between saying the truth out loud or keeping the personal and unshared knowledge. Unspoken words are uncreated expressions. Words have an impact, whether with insult or compliment to creation. Holding back the truth is the same as taking away the spirit necessary to live on. Yet the truth can be overwhelming as is the ineffable. An aspiring truth can save and give meaning to life. A life without purpose is one that will wither away inevitably. And a life with too much purpose can be overcome by the burden.

It is not simply words. I cannot take myself away from those who love me. And I cannot take away the love I give others. The sacrifice would not be entirely mine, but also to others if I chose to abstain from connection. This is the able spell of meaning that each of us hold in responsibility to all around us.

If others have faith, then their spirit may continue when its help is absent. So, we must keep the faith for the victory to come. When the fury of the deceived is delivering, there will be a great exhaustion of rage in due time. Their fuel in their anger will cease. We will continue when receiving the signal by the light and we pause when the darkness stumbles.

Gaining territory...

Let their actions be their demise and let our character stand tall to adversity. We do not win by direct confrontation; we win by refusing to consent ourselves to be changed by the terror. We stay with who we are, and we preserve our love as fuel through the night. When your soul is empowered by its inherent divine spark it becomes a momentary nova. Others notice the change in pace and so, they steady their hands and focus. A calculated and noble willpower wins by its formidable defense while the fury scorches those who wield the painful fire. The menace does not understand the art of fire or know the respect to hold it nearby within its own sacred space.

It is not tough to battle for scars. It is not clever to manipulate for a trophy. And it is not a duty to prove yourself to the world. Standing apart is out of boundary. Standing by is near the boundary. Standing near is close to home. Home is a place of comfort and warmth. The ego demands your focus. The soul does not, it delivers the focus. Who you are is not simply momentary. You are settled within a puddle of consciousness on top of clouds above. Your voice calls from the soul, and eyes see from the spirit.

We are not unique by difference. Instead, our exceptional nature is revealed when we empower personal expression with reflection of the divine inner spark of spirit in our soul. The purity within us shines when embracing ourselves with the love to feel safe showing it. In this time of reckoning most do not feel safe in a situation. The becoming to feel safe is the salvation of knowing to be keen in mind and heart to honor the Greater Benevolence. If you can appreciate, nurture, and protect innocence in life, then you must guard your spirit to guard yourself. Innocence is essential to feel good in your conscience. Do you treat others well, do you uplift others or speak to them into illness?

I can speak for myself, yet others will speak of me with their own judgment. Others have divided me from the in-crowd. On an aspect I am stereotyped as being weak and submissive for being openly bisexual and yet, my energy dominates people privately insecure of themselves. In the past, other men have been infatuated and idealized me and viewed me as intimidating.

The social perspective viewed by society and media can truly become an inaccurate and daunting unreality of its own illusion.

When it is, there are players involved who are speaking dark sentences. They are disturbing the puddle of time by their intrusive dreams of grey matter. The dirt mixes with water and life becomes contaminated. Then it is murky and later toxic to life itself.

Those with the best to offer are the ones put down for their ability. Envy is the murderer of society. Sociopaths are tactical and clever, as manipulation is easy. It is easy to acquire skill in deception and carelessness, and it is free to sell the soul for personal gain in the world. And so, Helel (Satan) knows loyalty from people can be transactional for promised wealth and power. Making a promise is both a social contract and agreement. The agreement is met by objective expression, and then it is variable to subjective condition.

Angels by nature are both flamboyant and expressive. Surely enough to make an insecure tough guy cringe. The origin of beauty is the Divine. And so, the flashy becomes the new pretty. Angels are stylish and confident, with exuberance they are energetic, cheerful, and excited. They have much more of a personality than people imagine. In discussing this example of divine confidence and angels as secure beings, I advise you to embrace yourself.

Authenticity in place of conformity makes global acceptance as the new collective dream. Human relations flourish by mutual respect between others. The world awakens into a place where there is no judgment for each soul to show its truest colors. The neutral path ahead systemizes the collective movement toward new conformity where cooperation climaxes the subjective experience of love all share.

Angels dwell in the abode of the Heavenly Father. To live among the Heavenly Father has requirements. The heart must always maintain benevolence. One must have purity before intent with every thought and never cast judgment on another. To rebel from heavenly nature will result in a fall of consciousness. The spirit and soul must value having natural alignment with the Heavenly Father. Trust in the Heavenly Father for our sake. God does the work, and we follow the plan.

Angels have good intention and do not act with indecent behavior. They have pure hearts and dedicate themselves to the wellbeing of others. That does not exclude the potential an angel may fall to corruption, it just makes it less likely. Demons on the other side of polarity have evil intention and thrive off suffering and fear. That is their drive. And they also have the potential to renew toward benevolence. It all begins with a change in heart.

In free will is the middle where humanity stands. The soul has liberty to decide whether its own actions align with the good, bad, or neutral. Humanity by its nature is placed at neutral, is balanced, and may incline either to good or bad intention. Many people in the world may see that goodness is seated on the highest plane. People may also gaze in fascination at their own potential for evil work. This conundrum is how humanity sat with God in contentment but then became persuaded by the malicious side of reality. It is not a curse, as you are the coming hope to balance existence. It is a grand responsibility.

To make this life purposeful you must have purpose in your actions. Incline toward higher self-esteem and character. Chasing for desire and greed alone grants temporary satisfaction. Those who embrace servitude to creation and other people are granted greater knowledge and insight. People sitting idle and concerned for only themselves are not open to the higher reception.

To be fit for receipt of higher knowledge, you must be surveyed as kind, humble, and open-minded. The extent of higher knowledge is beyond human reasoning and acquired only by divine transmission. Meaning that nobody can simply figure everything with their mind alone. There is no intellectual credit for you with what is understood thanks to revelation. Knowledge does not credit simply because it has been discovered. As we do not create the knowledge, we only become witness to it.

Do not judge or be judged for it. Judgment can lead a person to become an aggressor. An antagonist position will cause you to become disconnected from higher reality. To combat against the world and others will have a self-defeating result. If one is honestly ushered to help the world their action would inherently follow the direction ordained by the Heavenly Father and not a free will of one's own action and decision. The servants to the Heavenly Father do not decide how to serve him; they do what they are shown to do.

God remains subtle as an omnipresent being within and beyond creation.

Connection to the Heavenly Father is held through the spirit and beyond the perception limited by surrounding environment. We are always observed by God, and this awareness lies untouched within the conscience. It will remain no matter if someone chooses to cover it with dirt. Notice your observer. Through your acknowledgment of the nonphysical and pervasive presence of God you can communicate with him. Be less skeptical. Do not assume there is no witness to your thoughts or that they cannot reach.

I have been tempted by others who wish to steer me toward direction of their choice. It is a hard dilemma to learn how to trust. Should we entrust another for our wellbeing. Anyone can wear a smile. People can say nice things and care. Though, it is never favorable to give away your autonomy and personal sovereignty. This magnitude of trust is better kept only to the Heavenly Father, the Divine.

Never entrust someone to take care of your heart for you, that is both unfair to them and to yourself. Offering your whole being to be held by the weak hands of someone only tests the strength of their arms, and it is careless to move your burden onto someone else. Having such a caring heart is a blessing. However, using your heart as a vantage point to peer into another's life can be very detrimental to your wellbeing. Good people will try to fix someone or show love in effort to heal them. Do not make this decision to do so for your sake, pray about it.

What you have the most control over is yourself. Perhaps there is some nuance I am overlooking. To discuss generally, you choose your words, actions, and reactions. It is better to be an expert with yourself. There seems to be waves of people in this world who want to crash down on others. They anoint their own cursing and judgment against others. We are sitting in a detrimental position.

For over a decade now, I have had foresight of these times at present. My vision sharpened and I had received allowance in time for divine guidance. I was vocal for years warning of the darkened future ahead. I remain silent through a lot and some things I want to say.

You cannot make sense to sentiments contrary, the ones that are held by someone else. You can only plant seeds of advice and perspective. And if a person nurtures the offering, they will be able to handle it better. It all comes full circle, the cycle of seasons.

The harsh condition and what remains is then later received in fruition. Sometimes only little comes from something you would consider having more yield. You work with what you have. And what you have you do not leave unattended.

Maintaining an internal life in addition to your external life creates space within for a personal side of life. Monitoring from within occupies your soul (psyche) to further develop your consciousness. Your soul is placed within to observe and learn from experiences. This is how we are informed. With the information we revise our understanding and draw in extended awareness. There are risks involved in opening your mind and heart. While being receptive can embrace further meaning, there is reason for our innate protective shell from influence.

“Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me.”

Psalm 23:4 NRSV

Sometimes the road to be traveled will have those who have lost their way, and they roam the same territory. In life we are supposed to press forward at all costs and against all odds. People along the way may be standing to the side for rest. Some may think the lake at the side is paradise itself when it is there only for a moment to witness. We may enjoy surroundings once before carrying on. The path to the top of the mountain is inclined and this is a steady expectation. The slope may be steep at times, which makes it harder to overcome.

Life is strenuous. Some may humbly plant their flag and know they are not equipped to go further. There are some people who exert themselves to move ahead unwisely, with only the interest to prove themselves greater than those who pace behind. They will lose vitality as the challenge increases, their preparedness proves to be lacking. People who are haughty will be humbled, and not at their own decision of when or how.

Our purpose is designed innately for our soul and is not something we determine alone on a whim. What we see best fit for ourselves is only seen by a linear and limited perspective, the sight from the present to the future. The other side views from the future. Our potential is juxtaposed to be with the most meaningful impact on others. Yes, on others. Purpose is meant to be fulfilled not self-serving.

Feeling a part of a team is to feel helpful and at the right position for your own ability. It also happens that true purpose is something we do not expect but is something that fuels by an eternal supply of gratitude and appreciation. My compassion is trained by life experiences. My soul visits the wellspring of love. Nurture and support provided to others is the secondary aspect of purpose.

A person that chooses their life with regard put aside to the detriment of others will end up being empty. Standing on the ground with life all around now cold and dead is a great empty hall where regret calls you to shame. Fuel for existence drives on by having concern. Enjoy a meaningful purpose. In the previous existence when purpose ran dry and there was no more left to help, the existence ceased to exist. If there is no purpose left, there is no existence. Therefore, the Heavenly Father assists next to conjure a greater purpose for newer existence to follow. For each subsequent existence the grand purpose evolves.

There is a fine line between knowing when to be of assistance or resistance. Evil people spend their thinking time plotting their future and they create an agenda. If confronted with the request to participate in a ploy set against another, you must separate immediately. This is best done by showing resistance. You could express a couple things to show resistance and avoid conflict. Question the bad actor with an emphasis on disbelief and disinterest. The bad actor will decide you to be ineffective, and they will move on.

Having executive willpower and personal autonomy is to be impervious to influence. People learn to know that you have a strong foundation. This leads people to show their best behavior around you. They show manners and positivity with you, and in your absence, they show their more authentic and sometimes declined behavior.

It leads us to question why. Do people not care about the consequences? Those who are sensible standby with concern for safety. They wonder why anyone would rush and take risks. It is an exciting state of meaninglessness. It is being sharp to deny the worst with unsettling assuredness. Thinking as if one is indestructible. Anyone with massive investment in their ego knows very well what it is like to feel high at the very edge of a cliff.

How dare anyone. There will be those who choose to dare but also to sacrifice livelihood, being recruited for a damaging opposition.

Do not underestimate the versatile potential of a spirit. It may become an extreme of one direction, one of any direction. Spirits seek their definition and then expose their energy. Every spirit will become proud, but proud of what? Time will always tell. The spirit is like combustible gunpowder. Its quality is when it is triggered it will ignite. What is underneath will be provoked when given reason to act on the repression of haste, fury, or perhaps the deep-seated hope for justice. Some will be as expected and some will be unexpected. Human expression is within spiritual potential.

There really is not anything unusual that I must say to prepare anyone for the near future. It is simple to know that we must love and forgive each other. To attract together harmony and renewal into our world it requires setting a new foundation that grants communal love and appreciation. The environment must be able to breathe calmly in new light without anxiety or concern. The Garden of Eden is of the lands which rest in the sense of timeless peace and security. In the serenity it is normal to walk around naked without shame for who you are, cast with honor and beauty.

Turn far away from the tempted conformity that demands your attention to look a certain way, to feel a certain way. The machine driving the social system commands us for our loyalty and cultural conformity. People want to be deemed normal enough. The norm followed by society creates false security, and a loyal sense to the nation and not the land itself.

A flag, a statue, and an icon, are monolithic symbols. They sign the recognition of a prided history to now operate as a symbol. We use this imagery attempting to preserve and extend the high of an elusive sense of hysteria, this does not grant any authentic purpose natural to the self and community. Iconography serves as reminders of where we were in the past, they are not from the future ahead.

Preserve your memories somewhere safe and private. The personal light you protect gifts the enduring meaning and purpose. The journey becomes demanding, but the purpose sought, and challenges overcome, cause the personal drive to excel further.

The ancient people anticipated that ahead of their time was the coming of a great period of darkness. Hinduism discusses a pattern of the ages, the Yuga cycle. The end part of the four stage Yuga cycle is the Kali Yuga. The Kali Yuga is known as the Age of Darkness. It is characterized as being a period of moral decline, conflict, and suffering. We are presently in the Kali Yuga when hypocrisy and strife ram down the quality of life.

Upon the end of the Kali Yuga then returns the Satya Yuga, the Golden Age. The Satya Yuga is clarified as the Age of Truth and in its past time it is said that humanity was governed by the gods. In this age the purest ideals were manifested, and the law of every day was ruled by a natural tendency for inherent goodness.

Much of mythology and beliefs of ancient civilizations have a common thread aligned. It is obvious we are in a period of darkness where previous wonderous knowledge and its telling perspective have been shoveled deep into the ruins. At the elite hands the global narrative is under their financial influence, which curves the trajectory outlined by media and dogmatic institutions. Ancient mindset has not persisted. The modern mindset has declared the ancient world dead with claims that make attempts to rationalize folklore as meaningless.

The Roman poet Ovid discussed Four Ages. The Four Ages are Golden, Silver, Bronze, and Iron. The Greek poet Hesiod includes the Heroic Age to make a total of five. In the same as Hinduism, the Golden Age in Greco-Roman myth was a period with serenity and order which gods governed. In the Golden Age, men lived in an everlasting peace that seemed as timeless. No creature was wild, no sorrow of heart, and there was no misery.

The fourth age is the Iron Age, considered present and like the Kali Yuga. The Iron Age when men work and labor endlessly, they tire from suffering and even share among the evils. It is held belief that there will be once again a return to the Golden Age. Hinduism describes the world ages of the Yuga cycle as cyclical and enduring. Zoroastrianism views the timeline as linear, and not an endless repetition. It is not forever. It is concept for a calendar counting the time spent amid being fallen consciousness. The timed decline durative to the failing moral aptitude of mankind.

The imperfect universe is asymmetrical in perspective. Duality is the symmetry between two aspects that appear in polarity. For each aspect there is a force that aligns the universe to its core momentum. Harmony is not partial to the asymmetry. Harmony is not symmetrical through gravity or with the polarity of forces. The honor of life endures unpolarized.

The asymmetry existing between duality will collapse under pressure of the Absolute. In truth, good and evil cannot exist in one space forever. One will not remain with the other. Eternity is the ultimate reality without polarity. The universe is a known existence. And this existence was struck down and dispersed. The ultimate reality holds the substantial truth and harmony. It cannot be divided. It is eternally accustomed to ejecting negational existences. Truth alone is absolute. Truth accommodates the concept of eternity alone.

We can continue by accepting fate. There is good reason the universe will end. Matter does not justify the spirit by its nature. Only spirit can justify the temporary existence of matter. How do we as spirits justify this existence? It may be that we need the patience. Treating fate as a source of anxiety is how condition of suffering arises. It is not for us to worry about what the Divine does in good works. There is no premise for existential fear when the Light is always calling for us to return home when it is our time.

It is not for you to worry about the grand course of the universe. The turning point that shows the light succeeding will be profound and momentous. Darkness does not act with its own permission. It only finds a moment when the light is away. People working alongside the darkness will encroach on what is good for the time that night is allotted. Some things vanish on their own.

CHAPTER SEVEN

A LAST STAND

We face the finality of our world when we learn a very tough lesson. We cannot depend on ourselves to maintain the peace. We cannot trust ourselves either. The potent force within spirit must take the restraint in a higher power and meaning. The untamed spirit will desert its own conscience in favor of impulse. You had no idea about this before.

Need forgiveness? We all do. I wish to be forgiven when I fail someone or bring disappointment to another. They also need me to forgive them. But, what we have done that we cannot forgive each other for will have to be atoned. With a crushing dissatisfaction in the self, reality hits hard and the spirit nearly breaks apart to never be formed once more.

God is love.

A point for reflection is thinking of how we perceive other people not met personally. You can see everything in the eyes of another. It is the subtle focus necessary to see between the lines. An elementary level of perception, the glaring of eyes may be anger. Flaring of nostrils may signal suppressed anger. In any situation of concern that may turn dangerous, choose to remain calm and not aggravate the situation. If you lose composure, you may be confronted because of your reactionary behavior.

The nearing event in the distance is when reality will shift at the start of the next chapter. The resurrection of spirit and the ascension of Earth will allow time for us to further learn and evolve. There is a millennium to prepare humanity for its inherent purpose. Humanity is chosen to be as diplomats for the Divine for the convening of harmonious existence in the universe to serve in the universe, the Second Heaven, as a liberation front and an agency of the Divine.

When humanity is prepared, we will work in synchronicity with the objective of enlightening and establishing the universe. When the universe becomes stable to harmony, God will unlock great treasures. The challenges faced for accomplishing this will be trying but will earn us permission and the right to coexist in the ultimate existence transcendent to what is inferior to the idea of perfection. That eternity is far off but is well worth the effort.

Humanity is a creation of the Divine. It is the purpose of humanity to be agents of the Divine in the expanding existence surrounding us. It is true that Heaven is in a different realm that is set aside away from this universe. There is no disconnect between the two though, they are not separated.

A raindrop from the skies falls to a planet which is dry. The raindrops impact the land, and the rain drenching the landscape brings provision so that life may continue to excel further. You are no different. You are a spirit that descended from the heavens and have contacted the material universe. From here you have destiny to impact the cosmos with the divine spark you will know better. The end of this life will make you familiar with what comes next. This is just the beginning, the last twelve thousand years.

Time in the universe exists here first. We are in an isolated vacuum of space in existence. There is no life in the universe like ours. I do not expect anyone to easily be swayed by this, I am not going to pretend it is convincing.

The Divine intends that angelic beings will support from behind as humanity courts justice through existence. The universe as the second heaven is literal and material, whereas before now it was immaterial and fantasy. The third heaven is above and elevated as a transcendent state of consciousness. The third heaven is an overarching dimension beyond the universe where the spirit of the Divine is enthroned.

Why is there no life perceivably beyond this planet? Where we stand is the present and we witness it now as it has begun. If you hope to participate in the future, it is expected of you to mature and grow inside. Foolish temptations when embraced will condition your behavior to be impulsive. No more should we entertain the ignorance and dislike toward other people perceived to be different.

The universe routes through evolutionary inclines toward the perfect future existence. Each iteration of creation introduces progress and advancement through its calculation and discovery. Ideal factors are then added to the formula of existence before its renewal. The key to the reincarnation of the universe is the process of transfiguration. This is when reality becomes superimposed as a state of meditation and energy. This timeless stasis in which all positive outcomes are visited. Revisualizing optimality and planting necessary catalytic qualities to stress further evolution. It is like how particles are produced as mutable events when energy is enhanced and focused. The creation of the material universe learns and evolves itself by the awareness and intellect of the Divine.

What does it mean to turn the battle at the gate. To bond together to defy oppression and resist the rulers who attempt to persuade the world toward the end of hell? Yes, to do what no previous generation has done before. For us to refuse to allow the syndicate of the devil to chain our souls and throw the key away. For us to exemplify spirit and passion, and contest for necessary justice. To unify by individual action to counter the demise imposed by those who crusade against the innocent.

Turn around chaos by calling out the name of anyone in a manner that is desperate for love and reconciliation. Call on those in the world to give their heart. If you show love toward others, you excel in the light and demonstrate your patience and fortitude for reconciliation. If the heart of someone has dissipated, then speak to their part of self which you knew to have the love they once invested in. You call upon those stricken, not in judgment, but by redemption of their love and spirit they have withheld.

If a person hopes for the impending destruction and death of others, they will find it for themselves instead. The heavens would not rush to death. Those with a guilty conscience rush to an ultimatum to avoid their discovery. Their defiance creeps into becoming bolder without mercy, especially when apparent that a spirit of justice is uplifting civil affairs. They devise to stop the inevitability.

The false idols worshipped in practice. The deteriorating attitude of those who purchased the loyalty of others, only to be disappointed. We return to the hope for redemption as we witness the coordinated efforts directed from above. We see this hope in God. All people are children of God as spiritual beings. Anyone with arrogance and a reckless attitude will be crushed into submission by the light of truth and justice. Negativity will fall away with those who hold onto their spite in the place of hope and redemption.

It is the universal duty to harmony for each soul to protect and care for every other soul in creation. Meet the duty with the need and obligation to honor life. This means laws of cosmic order require you to protect souls. If refused, you fade away and become alienated from divine creation. You will find yourself in another failing universe.

One day humanity will not risk oppression and control. The difference ahead is collective, fully connected awareness. We effortlessly develop a sense for each other. We increase strength in focus and attention. We become able to sense the emotion, intention, and desire of other people. Theory of mind develops collectively into a shared sixth sense. The collective sense will uncover who is corrupted among their equals. This is the way the Natural Order will present itself. This foundation stood before.

The menace will present themselves to have righteous anger without being provoked. They oppose without a tangible premise. Their own reasoning is boosted by an irrational fever to act and control. They stand in opposition while unconcerned about who is behind them or the risk that is apparent. Forceful determination and unprovoked anger dramatized into being an appearance of righteousness is a marker of those enlisting in the rebellion. They recruit others and congregate in public to intimidate other people in the world they have deemed impure.

The crusade is viewed as if it is determined by divine hands. They are wearing the armor and clash in the name of God. They anoint themselves with a mission they chose alone. Heaven did not command this. In perspective of one who serves themselves and family with primary concern, they distrust and threaten any outsider. They act ferociously to anyone they believe threatens their private property. In the will to preserve their familiar culture they alienate from their global peers. Decaying of control and dominance becomes imperative to reverse. They martyr for the command over the institutions and land. A group superiority complex. The lashing of control develops the mutual interest between aristocracy and the church.

With the clutching over society from major power structures, the collective spirit in nature and life begins to suffocate and withdraw. And so, animals die without reason, nature erodes, and natural disasters intensify. The spirit of life and freedom becomes greatly impaired by the appearance of an oppressive and global force. One world order under religious pretense will present itself in forms of false idolatry. The savagery will propose the Bible, and other holy scriptures as archaic and needing enforcement by law rather than willing obedience. This is how faith and global culture will suffer from a massive disconnection.

The idolatrous system of control becomes the headquarters for spirits of deception. The demanded submission of the world will lead to despotism. It then becomes apparent that the guise of world order under religious pretext led the world to transform into Hell. Hell will not finalize reality on Earth unless the rebellion is successful. Spoiler alert, it will not succeed.

Realms which often are incorrectly equated to Hell would be Tartarus or Gehenna. These are not the same. Tartarus is a place of divine punishment ruled by angels.

Gehenna is the lake of fire and final destruction of the soul that is the second death.

Tartarus is the realm of refining fire where wicked souls are purified to be renewed. The punishment is personalized for each soul. The form of punishment will have a moral lesson. The practice for punishment is not performed to be meaningless. It is penalty with intention to teach and atone for the soul. Captivity of the soul held in this realm does not last for eternity. Souls in Tartarus do not suffer forever. These factors clarify that Tartarus is not the Hell this world has envisioned. And neither is Gehenna as a place for the final destruction and erasure of souls. Hell is depicted by the world as being a place for eternal suffering and torment. Such a place does not exist. Though, it is what Helel (Satan) intends to establish on Earth.

The rebellion of Helel is to call upon those willing to destroy the innocent. An alarm and whistle will be sounded to attack political opposites and social groups condemned as heretical by the false church. Helel deceives by leading the church to energize into a blind fury telling devotees to eliminate those who resist their agenda to overtake the world for establishing religious order. The authoritarian and despotic order over the Earth would become the kingdom that Helel desires to rule as the glorified Hell, an order where strict conformity is expected. People who are disliked are tortured without fair reason.

The Holy One has mercy, not the accursed who imitate justice. Having a religious identity does not anoint one with the responsibility to deliver divine authority and judgment. Your sense of wisdom and understanding does not certify you for leading the sheep. There is no duty for a sheep dog to help guide the sheep. Sheep follow the shepherd by faith. What help is a naïve sheep dog that disobeys the role of the shepherd?

Sheep dogs are also known as herding dogs. These dogs have modified predatory behavior toward sheep to herd them. Dogs are viewed as dangerous predators in the perspectives of sheep. Although sheep develop trust toward the herding dogs, the relationship is unnatural. Herding dogs are the offspring from breeding dogs for traits necessary to minimize viewing sheep as prey while maintaining hunting skills.

Individuals who view themselves as sheep dogs are threatening. They appear to us with mutual respect only because they control their temper. Perhaps not even control, but because they were restrained to good behavior. When hunger strikes them, things will change. The way for a predator to reform is to view their life with the same value as others among them. While the dog may have an advantage to sheep it must be humbled to coexist.

And the accursed people think infighting is necessary. The shepherd will not entertain any conflict among the herd like having dog fights. The spirit does not juxtapose, aside with truth. It aligns with nobility and sees the truth. There is no knowledge in power, a downfall of pride is avoided by those better knowing.

We do not have claim to knowledge. What is mine is truly not, and neither is yours. People who clutch the temporary do not see more than they think. Gripping onto the material is averting away from the spiritual foundation. Do not choose one dimension to matter more than another. The release of death offers the dissolution of control over attachments. The transition is inevitable. Do not split away from fate or linger in what is familiar and overlook the hopeful. We hope for better. It can always get better.

The insight in Zoroastrianism details further understanding for the human spirit and soul. The Fravashi is the divine spark of spirit that is within each human. Our spirit descended from heavenly realms to incarnate into the material world to assist Ahura Mazda. Humanity chose this life to battle against the darkness that seeks to make the universe its territory.

When the soul aligns with Asha, the cosmic force of truth and order, it can tactfully express its spiritual drive and assist the mission helping Ahura Mazda in the battle against cosmic evil. Through living the individual soul is guided to higher realization and the eventual return to divine company. Ahura Mazda is dependent on humanity to maintain the cosmos against the demon host.

Know that time will align with the realized future whether you comprehend it or not. The matters of universal function being revealed through symbolic intentions. We have clues to this from witnessing deeper than the apparent nature of existence. The insight is welcome in supporting the general message. None of the knowledge is property of anyone or anything. All truth emanates from the Heavenly Father, the Most High. The relation with the Divine is mysticism, and it is your choice to be personal to God or not.

Will you handle your part for the sake of the future? Do you believe in more than this life. The mystery of life is not the question of whether there is an afterlife or not. Why did everything come together in the first place? No one is going to know until the revelation of God. You do not need an answer to know there is one. Love is a truth of its own nature. We are imparted with the gift to feel such a beautiful thing. You can both feel love and know it. I am more the type to know love. My chemistry is not easily provoked.

I want you to remember something. Things were done for you before your time here. The gift of life is passed through generations by our enduring generosity. When you feel like you have lost hope, take from the hope of the past when people like you looked forward. Hope is not a personal item we carry. It is a collective phenomenon.

Prevail to see beyond the present. Life at present is changing to metamorphosize love in our souls to be eternalized. Striking the match for the deep guardianship you will have toward creation itself. You will surprise yourself with how much you really care about God, Nature, and the hearts around you.

Farewell my friend...
